Seminary Opened With Inspiring Address Of President F. E. Clausen

Students and Professors of College Take Part.

Instilling, with the vigor of his oratory, his own intense enthusiasm into his hearers, Rev. Frederick E. Clausen, newly appointed president of Waterloo College and Seminary, delivered a forceful message to the students of the institution on the occasion of the opening of the Seminary for the 1930-31 term, on Thursday, September 25.

With students and professors of both the college and seminary, ministers of the Canada synod and alumni of the seminary gathered in the school chapel, the occasion was a fitting one for the introduction of Rev. Mr. Clausen, who was the chief speaker for the service. The introduction of the new president was performed by Rev. N. Willison, Litt. D., president of the Board of Governors of the institution. Giving a resume of the history of Rev. Mr. Clausen and highly complimenting his abilities, Dr. Willison capably expressed the confidence which the Board is placing in the new president.

"As I listened to the cordial and complimentary words of Dr. Willison," observed Rev. Mr. Clausen, in opening his address, "there came to my minds the words of a man who was introduced very flatteringly: 'If a man needs an introduction, he doesn't deserve one; if he deserves one, he doesn't need it!' However, there may be exceptions to that rule.

"This afternoon I wish my address to be of an introductory note, for the seminarians and those who con-

French Literary Society To Be Re-Organized

There are rumors among the French students that the French Literary Society known as the Le Cercle Francais will again hold its regular meetings after an inactivity of two years. The society has had a number of interesting gatherings and its re-organization will be welcomed by the students of French language and literature.

REV. F. E. CLAUSEN CHOSEN BY BOARD HEAD OF INSTITUTION AND SEMINARY PROFESSOR

Newly Elected President has Wide Experience in Executive and Ministerial Work.

After three years during which the institution was without a president, the Board of Governors of Waterloo College and Seminary have secured Rev. Frederick E. Clausen of Brooklyn, N.Y., to fill this office. Although Rev. Mr. Clausen was present at the opening of the Seminary on Thursday, September 25, he will not be able to assume the duties of his new office for some time, and he has returned to Brooklyn.

Backed by an impressive record of outstanding successes both as an executive head and as a minister of the Lutheran Church, Rev. Mr. Clausen is, in the opinion of the Board of Governors, the correct man to fulfil the needs of Waterloo College and Seminary at the present time. Exacting in the qualifications demanded, and careful in their selection of one to take such an important post, the Board believes that in Rev. Mr. Clausen they have secured a most capable man.

Born in New York City, Rev. Mr. Clausen was orphaned in early infancy and received into the Wartburg Orphan Home at Mount Vernon, N.Y. Here he came under the influence of Rev. G. C. Berkmeier, D.D., for 35 years director of the Orphan Home. Encouraged by Dr. Berkmeier to study for the ministry, he entered Wagner College, and graduated with First Class Honors in 1900. He entered Mount Airy Seminary and graduated with honors in 1903.

Ordained in 1903 by the Pennsylvania Ministerium, he became pastor of the Church of the Epiphany in New York City, which church he served for nine and one half years.

At a meeting of the Boarding Club called to elect a president to succeed Walter Goos, Carl Seltzer was unanimously chosen to fill the position.

Rugby Enthusiasts Again Don Their Armour

Able Coach Secured to Direct the Team.

The rugby enthusiasts are glad to know that a coach has been engaged for this year. Mr. Jack Hemphill, the coach, had the squad out on the field for the first time on Tuesday afternoon and is now giving the elementary training, which will be followed by real rugby in a few days.

Although Waterloo College belongs to no league, quite a number of exhibition games are being sought. The first game will likely be played next week.

Mr. H. Casselman has been elected as manager; Mr. Geo. Orth as captain. Both of these have had a great deal of experience in this game. With the three aforementioned men at the head of the team and with co-operation of the players, students and the faculty the team should go a long way this year in coming closer to league standards.

If the team makes a good showing this year, it will probably play in some league next year. League games are always more exciting and give the players a greater incentive than exhibition games to do their best.

Track And Field Day To Be Held

The Athletic Directorate has definitely decided to have a field and track meet this fall. The date has not yet been set, but it is probable that this event will take place early in October. Some students are already getting in condition for this annual meet.

It is expected that some of the previous year's records will be broken since the Athletic Directorate has announced that no prizes are likely to be given unless a certain standard of efficiency is reached. Moreover, there are a few very capable athletes among the student body.

Large Attendance At First Gathering Of The Germania Verein

What promises to be one of the greatest years in the history of the Germania Verein was begun on Thursday, October 4th, when the officers for the term were elected. The attendance at this meeting was one of the largest since the organization of the society and if the interest manifested at the first meeting is any indication the society is promised a most successful year.

William Nolting was chosen president with Fred Haak as vice-president. Walter Eifert was placed in charge of the books and funds of the Society. Dr. Shorten was again unanimously re-elected honorary president.

Class Executives Chosen For The Term

Number of Offices go to Co-eds.

With executives for the 1930-31 school year elected and functioning, the four classes of Waterloo College have begun their year's activities and each organization anticipates a successful term. Organization meetings were held during the past two weeks and with the election of officers completed, the classes are already planning their year's endeavors. The feature of the elections was the strong representation of the co-eds on the various executives.

Fred H. Goos was chosen to lead the activities of the class of '31 for their last year at Waterloo College. Julius Neff was elected vice-president and Louise Twietmeyer secretary-treasurer of the Class.

After a second vote had been cast to break the tie, Elizabeth Spohn was elected president of the Junior class, which graduates in '32. Walter Eifert, the other nominee for the presidency, was elected vice-president, and Margery Tailby was chosen as secretary-treasurer.

Miss E. Doherty, M.A., newly-appointed professor of English and German at Waterloo College, has accepted the position of temporary honorary president of the class, during the absence of Professor Carl F. Klinck, who is pursuing the de-

The Editor's Chair

Welcome, Freshmen! Warm summer days have passed and with them vacation days for the College student. As a new life has begun in nature so also has a new term of activities commenced for the students of Waterloo College.

We were happy to shake the hand of classmates again and rejoice that so few have found it necessary to continue their studies at other institutions.

Many new students have found their way to our school. This year's registration shows a considerable increase, especially young men and women from the Twin City. We take this opportunity of extending the hand of welcome and fellowship to these strangers within our halls and cherish the hope that before long they will be "one of us."

May we also at the same time encourage you, Freshmen, to take an active part in the life of the school. Ours is still a comparatively young institution and we need your help and cooperation in all that we may undertake for the sake of Alma Mater.

Again, welcome to these halls and may your days at Waterloo College be the happiest and most profitable of your life.

Adieu! We have gained a few new students but at the same time we have also lost a few whose friendship we enjoyed and cherished. We are sorry they could not see fit to return to us again but assure them that even while they labour in other fields our thoughts are still with them, wishing them every success and rejoicing in their every achievement. We wish you the best of luck, boys, and remember the doors of Waterloo College are always open to you.

More Lutheran Students Needed. These columns have recently lauded the work of the Dean of the College, Willis C. Froats, and the Dean of Women, Hannah M. Haug, for their untiring efforts to increase the registration. These commendations we feel have been justly earned and we feel a certain pride in the officials at the head of our institution.

Were we, however, "in their shoes" we believe we should be greatly disappointed, and rightly so, with the rewards of our labour.

Waterloo College, if we are right, was founded to provide a means of higher education for the young men of the Canadian Lutheran Church. Recently, sensing the need of educated young women also, co-education was introduced.

Firmly believing the Lutheran young folks would be eager to take this advantage of securing a higher education in a Christian atmosphere prospectus and catalogues setting forth the advantages of Waterloo College, were sent out to every minister, every secretary of the Church Council, every president of the Luther League, the Ladies' Aid Society and Missionary Society of the Canada Synod. These officials were requested to present the information to the young folks under their care. Shortly afterwards these same officials were notified of the acquisition of a dormitory for the girl students from out of town.

We may ask what have these "workers in the Lord's vineyard" done? To put it plainly, very little. Let us explain. Of the new students only five claim membership in the Lutheran Church. Of these, three belong to the Canada Synod. Now to what extent have the officials above been responsible for these students? Four were influenced by the efforts of students and professors. Think of that! Only one pastor in the entire Canada Synod could find a student for his college and that happened to be his own son.

Is not this a matter of grave concern? Can it be that the Lutheran young folks have not the desire to secure a standing in the educational and social order of the country? Must we say they have not the ambition to compete with their fellows of other denominations?

An educated laity is just as essential to the welfare of our church as an educated clergy and we shudder to think what may become of our Lutheran Church if the young folks, the members of the future, continue to turn their backs upon the training its schools have to offer.

Pastors and members of the Lutheran Church, this is your College and well may you be proud of it. Let your pride and devotion be manifested in your services, in its cause. Pastors and parents, give to Waterloo College your sons and daughters and Waterloo College will give them back better men and better women to serve humanity and the church.

CONCORDS

A newspaper depends a great deal on its advertisers for revenue to conduct the publication and the College Cord is no exception to this rule. As in former years our advertisers responded gladly, almost without exception, when asked to renew their contract or take out additional space. It has always been the plea of the College Cord "patronize our advertisers," and now, at the beginning of another year, we are asking our readers and especially the student body to help those who are helping us.

What a pleasure to come back and see the tennis courts enclosed with that fine fence we were fighting so hard to get last year at this time.

We have continually advocated the hiring of a coach to direct our activities in athletics and now congratulate the Directorate in taking this forward movement in securing such an able man as Mr. "Jack" Hemphill to coach our rugby team. We sincerely hope we shall also have a trained leader at the head of our other teams.

Heart Throbs

By Ophelia Pultz

Dear Ophelia:

The problem which I am presenting to you is I firmly believe, one of the most difficult which you have yet encountered. Indeed, I am convinced that you will be unable to solve it. I am writing to you only as a last resort, in the faint hope that you may be able to relieve my worries.

Some time ago I met a girl at a wiener roast. I thought that I need look no further for the Perfect Woman. After that glorious night I walked with my head in the clouds, filled with roseate dreams of this wonderful creature. I determined to meet her again at the first opportunity. The opportunity soon came. I took her home from a function which we had both attended.

And now my dreams are shattered. Once more must I begin hunting for the girl of my dreams. For some unaccountable reason, I was no longer attracted to this girl after I had taken her home. Will you please attempt to explain this sudden change of heart on my part? I am completely at a loss to account for it.

R.C.

Answer

It is next to impossible to help you in this. I am able to offer advice and suggestions to those who find themselves in difficult predicaments in the course of philanderings, but I do not pose as a mind or heart reader. Further I do not know the Woman in the case. However, I may be able to make some suggestions which may put you on the track of the truth.

It is possible that the girl in question may be one of the four out of every five, and that her best friends have neglected to fulfill their duties of informing her, as best friends, according to the advertisements, regularly do.

But I believe that the real truth lies in the fact that you were a member last year of the now defunct Celibates' Association. The noble influence which this society of bachelors extended over you last year had such a strangle-hold on your life, your character and your habits, that it has continued even after the society itself has passed away. Moulded by those vigorous months into the form of the true gentleman and a Celibate, your character ennobled by that period of strict self-denial, you probably are now such a true celibate that it is impossible for you to be attracted by any woman. In the words of the popular song of two years ago, the society is ended but the malady lingers on.

Yours truly,

Ophelia Pultz.

There's one thing a man who knows it all doesn't know, that's how unpopular he is.

Four Members Added To Faculty

Because of the additional courses the Waterloo College staff has been augmented this year by the addition of four new members.

Miss E. Doherty, M.A., is a full time professor in the department of English. Miss Doherty came to the College brilliantly recommended being a graduate in Arts from Western and Toronto Universities and having taken courses at Cambridge and Harvard towards her Ph. D., winning scholarships throughout her course. She comes equally recommended as a teacher and is a highly valuable member of the staff.

The College has also been fortunate in securing the services of Miss Mabel Dunham, B.A., as instructor in Library Science. Miss Dunham who is the Kitchener Librarian is widely known as the author of the "Trail of the Conestoga." This book has lately been placed by a prominent critic among the fifty best Canadian books ever written. Her experience as a librarian will give her students an opportunity of receiving first-hand knowledge.

The Rev. J. Maurer, M.A., D.D., and the Rev. F. Matheson, B.A., are both instructors in public speaking. Their own wide experience and skill in this art makes them particularly efficient teachers so that their classes should prove both instructive and entertaining.

SOCIAL

During Rev. F. E. Clausen's brief stay at the school he was entertained by Rev. and Mrs. E. Neudoerffer.

Fred H. Goos was the guest of Edward Neigh at his home in Stratford over the week-end.

Rev. Albert Lotz of Maynooth recently paid his Alma Mater a visit to renew old acquaintances with students.

A bad excuse is better, they say, than none at all.

Celibates' Association Forced To Disband

Singing happily as they go about their daily tasks, the co-eds of Waterloo College, and likewise sundry other young ladies of Kitchener and Waterloo, are once more moving about in a world of sunshine. The dense cloud of gloom which for a year hung over their heads has been dissipated. Joy reigns supreme in their hearts, for the Celibates' Association, the epoch-making society which for a year protected ten young men of the school from the wiles of the opposite sex, has been disbanded.

The momentous decision which makes the fair residents of the Twin Cities feel that life once more is worth living, was reached at a meeting of the Association last Tuesday noon. The seat of the trouble appeared to be the great depletion of the ranks. Four members of the society had failed to return, and of the remaining five, three expressed the intention of seceding from the organization. As it was deemed impossible for two men to carry on the tremendous task alone, to bear the torch unaided, it was unanimously decided that the organization should be dissolved.

At 12.47 p.m. Eastern Standard time, on September 23, 1930, G. R. Casselman, president of the society, spoke the fateful words, "I declare the Celibates' Association of Waterloo College, Waterloo, Ontario, to be no more."

Local students who were members of the society are seriously considering the suggestion that the constitution of the association be donated to the Waterloo Historical Society, to be preserved in the annals of the country.

College Alumni News

The class of 1930 with the exception of one, who is serving in the ministry, are returning to institutions of higher learning to complete their studies.

Walter Goos and Arthur Buehlow have gone to Mount Airy Seminary at Philadelphia where they have registered in the Junior year. Letters from these two boys tell us they are well pleased with their new surroundings.

Harold Crouse chose Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, Seminary courses were not enough for him so he is taking post graduate work in Gettysburg College towards an M.A. degree in History.

Lloyd Schaus and Walter Koerber are studying the methods of teaching at the College of Education in Toronto.

template entering the seminary. I will refer to a passage from the epistles of St. Paul, in which he places his estimate of the ministry on a very high plane: "We, then, as ambassadors of Jesus Christ!"

The first duty of the minister as the ambassador of Christ, according to Rev. Mr. Clausen, is that he know his message. "No ambassador of a nation," said the speaker, "could appear before the government of another country and express his own opinions or views. No ambassador starts out before having a clear idea of what he is intended to say. You and I as ambassadors of Christ should never presume to give our own views. We should come with the message given to us by Him whose spokesmen we are. Here is our accredited document—the Bible."

The speaker stressed the fact that it is the duty of the minister to interpret God and His Word to man, and that it is the mission of a theological seminary to guide future ministers in their effort to understand God's Word and interpret it.

The second duty of the ambassador of Christ mentioned by the speaker is that he interpret his message in the language of the age and the environment. Rev. Mr. Clausen stated that although man is seeking God more than ever before, and although man is beginning to understand that of himself he knows little and can do little, he is not able to accept the God which the Church has been giving to him. "There," stated the speaker, "the Church has failed to give the layman what he wants."

Rev. Mr. Clausen explained that

SPORTS

Ancient Game Of Horse Shoes Invades Professors And Students

The horse-shoe epidemic has found its way into Waterloo College. Two courts have been put up and are now used almost continuously. Even while classes are on one can hear the clang of the shoes against the stakes.

A committee consisting of four members, Prof. Shelley, Messrs. Seltzer, Neff and Ruppel, which was elected to put up the courts is also conducting a tournament. Most of the male students signed up for this tournament, so that there will be keen competition. The tournament will probably begin this week.

A number of students are interested in playing quoits, but the interest in this game is not as keen as in the old game of horse-shoes, or as it is sometimes called, "barnyard-golf." A quoits tournament will also be run off in the near future.

Sport Dope

By A. Whisper

The back campus is a veritable picture of athletic activity—tennis, horse-shoe, quoits, track and field sports, rugby.

Perhaps Waterloo College will invent a new game. Someone suggested one that might be called tennis-croquet-golf.

If we had a miniature golf course here, students and professors might forget all about classes.

It looks good to see the purple and gold uniforms on the Athletic Field again.

What will the horse-shoe players do when winter comes?

We have no doubt whatever that Mr. Hemphill will get everything out of the rugby players that he possibly can.

Some are already turning their thoughts to basketball. Perhaps it is a little too early, don't you think so?

It is going to be hard on some of the boys playing rugby and basketball at the same time.

We hear Prof. R. J. E. Hirtle is taking up miniature golf now.

Someone has suggested laying out a nine hole golf course at the rear of the school. Not much work would be required to put that field in shape.

—W—

Sophomores Hold Golf Tournament

The social season of Waterloo College was opened on Friday, October 3rd, by the members of Class '33. Being of a venturesome nature, they decided to brave the hazards of a miniature golf course. Several times throughout the evening, small difficulties seemed to be encountered, but, despite this, there was keen rivalry between the members of the class. Miss D. Tailby carried off the honors, with Prof. R. J. E. Hirtle doing his best, but trailing behind.

An old-fashioned bean feed at the home of the president, and reminiscences of former days, brought the evening to a fitting close.

Tennis Courts

Finally Put In Shape

Since a new fence has been erected around the tennis courts perhaps no game is at present more popular than tennis. At present only one court is fit to play on, but within a few days the other court should also be in condition for playing. It is not likely that there will be a tennis tournament this fall, since too many other activities take up the student's time.

Waterloo College Enters Team In Church League

Games Begin Oct. 18th.

At a meeting of representatives of the K-W, Senior Church Basketball League at the K-W, Y.M.C.A., the following teams were entered: St. Jerome's College, St. Mary's Club, Benton St. Baptist Church, Zion Church, United Brethren, Trinity Church, the Y's Men's Club and Waterloo College.

This league, comprised of eight teams, will play its initial games on Saturday, October 18th at the "Y." Waterloo College will clash its first game of the season.

A number of Waterloo College players of last year's team have left, but there seems to be enough new material here to replace them. It has been mooted that an experienced coach will be engaged, and if this is the case, the purple and gold should go a long way towards winning recognition at the least.

the Bible was written with an agricultural background, and this is hard for the man of to-day to understand. "The Church," he declared, "must learn to take the fundamental and eternal principles and interpret them for the understanding of an age which has gone clean mechanical."

The third thing which the ambassador of Christ must do, according to the speaker, is to apply his message to the peculiar needs of the individual and first of all of himself.

"God have mercy upon the minister who tries to recommend to others the Word of God, who has not himself been saved by its power. The one place where the world now looks for sincerity is the pulpit," was the statement of Rev. Mr. Clausen.

The new president concluded his address with a suggestion to seminary students to spend some time in their rooms in solitary meditation. "There," he declared, "when your soul and God are face to face, there will come a glory and sheen of power, so that when you stand before your people to act as an ambassador of Christ, you will be able to fulfil your duties."

Rev. C. H. Little, D.D., conducted the service.

Vacation days are over for 1930. Every one is back in his parish, and busily planning work for months ahead. Every pastor needs rest and time to relax and gain strength for the complex duties confronting him during a year. May God bless everyone.

One more has been ordained by our Canada Synod at its last meeting in June, in Philipsburg, Ont.—and married—Pastor Albert Lotz, B. A., to Miss Hester Kelterborne, both of Wellesley, Ont. Congratulations. Bro. Lotz and bride are serving a mission field in the Ottawa Valley, (Maynooth).

Rev. E. J. Fischer, Hespeler, Ont., has taken unto himself a wife. Distance is no subject. Mrs. Fischer comes from Nova Scotia. Congratulations, "und lebe wohl."

We also extend our best wishes to Bro. Peters and wife—a baby girl, (Elsie).

Rev. J. Mangelsen has accepted a call to Ellice Tp. congregation. He will enter the new field about October 15th.

At time of writing we are glad to report that Mrs. P. Paul Berner, who underwent a serious operation in the Toronto General Hospital, is progressing favorably.

Rev. J. Vorkoper, Galt, has resigned and is leaving shortly to take a Post Graduate course at our Seminary in Maywood, Ill. We commend his desire.

Our good wishes go out to Rev. and Mrs. Kalbfleisch, Elmira, who rejoice over the arrival of a baby boy, (Frederick).

There may be other such "News Flashes," which would be very interesting, but no one tells us!

Every Seminary Alumnus rejoices to know that we have a President at our School. This applies especially to those who labour within the bounds of our Canada and Nova Scotia Synod. A meeting of our organization was held in connection with the Seminary opening, Sept. 25. The attendance was good. The jubilant spirit was very expressive, when we greeted the President of our Institution, Pastor Clausen of Brooklyn, N.Y. The new President and Pastor needs the support of every alumnus, and can be assured of our prayerful sincerity in furthering the work of our Alma Mater.

Athenaeum Holds First Meeting

New members of the Athenaeum were welcomed by Hubert Casselman at its first meeting of the year, Thursday evening. Mr. Nolting, as Librarian gave a report of the library. The purchase of the latest in fiction will again make this a popular department of the society.

In the elections of officers for the coming semester following resulted: Honorary president, Miss E. Doherty, M.A.; president, Edward Neigh; vice-president, Alvin Pauli; secretary-treasurer, Verna Lauman; Librarian, Otto Alberti. Short addresses were delivered by Miss Doherty and the newly elected president.

It was suggested that because of the great success of the recital by Dr. Charles G. D. Roberts it might be advisable to attempt to have a program of such a nature again this year. It was mentioned that Mr. Henry Witte, a Shakesperian dramatic artist, might be available for a recital. It was also suggested that Mr. Duncan Campbell Scott might be secured for a recital. The matter of investigation and choice was left entirely in the hands of the executive.

A College Song

Here's to the College our hearts delight in,
Here's to our happy days in its halls,
May our voices sing it,
And our great deeds ring it,
Till uttermost regions vibrate with our call!

Chorus:
Hail of the College! Hail to its Spirit!
Send forth its message from east to west,
That our men may be nobler,
And our women be truer,
As we give to the world of our very best.

For ours the College that stands for greatness,
And grandeur in facing the world with its test,
May our students proclaim it,
Nor ever defame it,
But keep unsullied its splendid crest.

For purple's the shade that dies last in the sunset,
And gold is the glory of the morning sun,
Our colours so royal,
Mean but we'll stay loyal,
Till every inch of our course be run.

NORTHERN LIGHTS

Oh! ye dwellers of this earth
Be prepared for Winter's mirth,
For I've seen his Elfin sprites
Dancing with the Northern Lights.

Chipping snowflakes from the ice
As their warning and device;
While the trees have shed their leaves
And the hoarfrosts' on the eaves.

For the streams have chilled their song
'Midst the rushes silent throng,
And the birds have left our lands
Seeking warmer southern sands.

For the winds are blowing chill
O'er the fields now sear and still,
Soon they'll turn to northern blast
As the snows go rushing past.

Oh! ye dwellers of this earth
Be prepared for Winter's mirth,
For I've seen his Elfin sprites
Dancing with the Northern Lights.

Registration Day Busy One For Faculty

"The Butcher, the Baker, the Candle stick maker," and many other professions too numerous to mention, were represented within the halls of Waterloo College on September 18, when returning students and new additions to the lists passed in review before the Dean, the Registrar, and the fateful Bursar, to sign the dotted line. Registration day saw an intense activity as students starting another year arranged their courses from the menu cards presented, filled out their timetables and sadly handed over a section of their summer's earnings to the imperious man behind the money desk.

The economic depression could not have been as serious during the summer as politicians declared, judging from the tall tales of hard labor told by the returning students. Customs officials, bell-hops, farmers, beer-slingers, office workers, salesmen, carpenters, guides and plain, ordinary laborers, and a few gentlemen of leisure, spent a few hectic hours describing to each other the trials and vicissitudes of the summer. However, their memoirs were nipped in the bud on the discovery that classes started at 7.45 o'clock on the following morning, and continued until five o'clock in the afternoon, and even from seven to eight o'clock at night.

Called to St. Paul's Church in Wilmington, N.C., he served that congregation for six years until called to St. John's Lutheran Church in Brooklyn. For twelve and a half years he has been pastor of this bilingual congregation and during that time it has grown to one of the largest Lutheran Churches in the city.

Pastor Clausen has served as a member of the Examining Committee of the N.Y. Ministerium, was for three years President of the N. Y. Conference of the Ministerium, was a member for three years of the West Indies Board of the General Council, for some time was Editor of the Sermon Department of the Lutheran Church Visitor of the United Synod of the South. At present he is a member of the Executive Committee and Chairman of the Committee on Immigration and Port Work. He has been president of the Inner Mission Society of Brooklyn for eight years and under his incumbency the Society, which had no property, acquired a property valued at $150,000 dollars.

On Wednesday, the tenth of September, the Board of Governors of Waterloo College and Seminary extended to him a unanimous call to become President of the College and Seminary, Dean of the Seminary Faculty and Professor of English Bible and English Homiletics in the Seminary.

With characteristic promptness Rev. Mr. Clausen accepted the call and will assume his new duties just as soon as it will be possible for him to make the necessary arrangements.

BURGLARIES ARE PREVALENT THESE DAYS

It protects you against loss of jewelry, wearing apparel, rugs, pictures, household and personal effects—also against damage to your premises caused by burglars.

Every time you go out your house is exposed.

A Burglar Policy is the Only Protection.

It may cost you more to replace some trifle than it would cost you to buy Burglary Insurance.

Why delay? To-day's policy will pay to-morrow's loss. The cost is small.

Discords

Student: "I'm knee deep in love with you!"

Co-ed: "Then I'll put you on my wading list."

Bill: "Did you hear about the trouble Tom Jones and his wife are having?"

Alvin: "No. What's wrong?"

Bill: "Well, before they were married he nectar, but now elixir."

Old proverb: "Laugh and the world laughs with you."

Pauli version: "Laugh and the world laughs at you."

Philosophy professor: "Riches take unto themselves wings and fly away. That is a famous quotation. Now what does the writer mean? Come, come, surely some one can answer a simple question like that. Miss Spohn, what kind of riches did the writer mean?"

Miss Spohn (after a pause): "Ostriches, sir."

Harvey: "Where did you get the clarinet?"

Rye: "I borrowed it from Crouse."

Harvey: "But you can't play a clarinet."

Rye: "Neither can Crouse when I've got it."

"Sedentary work," said the college lecturer, "tends to lessen the endurance."

"In other words," butted in the smart student, "the more one sits, the less one can stand."

"Exactly," retorted the lecturer, "and if one lies a great deal, one's standing is lost completely."

First student: "What did you do during the summer?"

Second student: "I was working in my dad's office. What were you doing?"

First student: "I waen't working either."

"Who is that fellow with the long hair?"

"He is a fellow from Yale."

"Oh, I have often heard of those Yale locks."

Her father: "I doubt very much whether you would be able to support my daughter. I can hardly do it myself."

The young man (brightly): "Let's pool our resources."
