Ultimatum to gov by Jenkins denounced by W.U. Council

The Students' Council of Waterloo University College has sent a letter to David Jenkins, president of the Canadian Union of Students, emphatically denouncing the actions of CUS in demanding a statement of government policy on the activities of the RCMP in the area of campus security investigations.

The Council agreed that CUS has the right to seek legislation to strengthen the recourse of citizens to the courts, in matters which might compromise his constitutional rights as a Canadian citizen. WUC disagreement is with the method CUS is using to force government action.

Council stated that CUS should strive for cooperation with the Canadian government in an attempt to understand both sides of the problem. Then if no reasonable solution is taken in the light of factual information, the Board of Directors (of CUS) should consult the member universities on what action should or should not be taken.

Copies of the letter were sent to the Honorable Lionel Compton, Minister of Justice, and Ed. Smeck, President of Canadian Union of Students Press, and the Kitchener-Waterloo Record.

THE CORD WEEKLY

No. 7 WATERLOO UNIVERSITY COLLEGE Fri., Nov. 8th

Council ratifies CUS membership Committee increased

Wednesday night, Students Council decided to ratify Waterloo University College membership in the Canadian union of Students.

This decision came after 35 minutes of animated debate. During this debate council heard two briefs and three motions.

The first brief was read by Tony Liberta, chairman of the campus C.U.S. committee. This contained the proposed activities of C.U.S. for 1963-64, and a list of some of the past accomplishments.

The second brief was read against C.U.S. by Bill McLeod, senior class president. In this brief, McLeod agreed that an organization of University Students was needed, but considered that C.U.S. was so bad as to be hopeless. He suggested that it might be wise to support an alternative group.

Peter Bagnall, sophomore president asked if W.U.C. could drop out for a year and watch C.U.S. for further developments. But the feeling was that if W.U.C. dropped out, others would follow, and C.U.S. was not strong enough to stand this.

Towards the end of a heated discussion period, council agreed that such a system as C.U.S. was definitely needed, but not the existing C.U.S.

Bill McLeod moved that "Waterloo University College withdraw from the existing organization and give whole-hearted support to any ideas which might result in an effective organization of Students attending Canadian Universities". This motion was seconded by Gord Rich, council vice-president, but was defeated by a vote of 4-6.

It was then moved by Bob Powadiuk, president of frosh class, that "The Students Council stay with the C.U.S. and we do all in our power to further what our Students Council thinks the organization should accomplish." This motion was sustained by a vote of 5-4 with one abstention.

Council Pres. McLean said that C.U.S. appears to be operating on a year to year basis with no goal or aims. He said that he felt it was the responsibility of council to work to correct the mistakes of C.U.S.

Tony Liberta said that he had gone to the last congress in Edmonton with a negative attitude. He said he found many things wrong.

"But I agree in principle," he stated. "Many Universities feel the same way. We should educate our delegates so they can rectify these mistakes".

"We should get down on paper our real thoughts and ideas to give these people," he added.

It was then moved by Mike Morris and seconded by Murray Ross, junior class vice-president, "that we expand the C.U.S. committee of W.U.C. to four more members to delve into the more serious faults of the national structure of C.U.S. and suggest recommendations."

There was much discussion as to whether this increase in size would make the committee unwieldy.

But when put to a vote the motion carried 9-1.

After asking for volunteers, the following were named to the C.U.S. committee on campus:

Mike Morris, vice-president of Senior Class.

Dennis Brooks, Student Union Board of Governors chairman.

Gordon Rich, Vice-president of Students Council.

Dave Pady, Vice-president of the Sophomore Class.

Canadians Lack Guts, says Pierre Berton

by Lewis Pressner of the Ryersonian

"Canadians lack guts," declared Pierre Berton between tapings of his show at Ryerson Institute Technology recently.

"The clock is running down, as Canada is slowly splitting apart. It is almost too late to save. There is going to be a national crisis."

When asked why he thought Canada lacked the necessary drive, Berton said, "We substitute excuses for its own sake."

Because of the almighty dollar Canadians gravitate to the U.S.

It's personal greed that is doing it. We have sold our country down the river.

We want independence, but we're afraid to pay for it."

Mr. Berton said he treated the Institute of Trivial Affairs — the first Berton show taped a satirical treatment of Canadian news events — with an underlying tone of seriousness.

"We face a grave situation that cannot be solved by gutless people . . . it's much more than the French thinking we don't want to speak their language. It's much more than that. I call it National Apathy.

Carnival Queen Contest expanded to twenty-three

A record 23 girls from Canadian universities and colleges have been invited to compete for the title of Canadian University Snow Queen at the fourth annual Winter Carnival next year.

This was announced recently by carnival chairman Brian Baker. Dates for the carnival have been set for January 30, 31 and February 1, 1964, Baker reported.

The Queen contest, the first of its kind in the world, was started at Waterloo University College, two years ago when six girls competed. Last year 14 contestants from as far away as the University of British Columbia and Memorial University, St. John's Newfoundland, travelled to Waterloo to participate.

Plans are being made for last year's queen, Miss Maxime Dawe of Memorial University, to return to Waterloo to crown her successor.

characters from Li'l Abner

Almost all of the lovable characters of Dogpatch will be featured in this year's edition of P & G. These include the following:

Daisy Mae: Pauline Thompson, a contestant in the Miss Canada Contest will portray the beautiful, shy, maidenly native of Dogpatch.

Li'l Abner: The producers of the show think they have a real find for this character. Atlantic recording artist Brian Russell will handle this important lead.

Pappy Yokum: The pint-sized spouse of Mammy Yokum will be emoted by John Adams.

Mammy Yokum: The pipe smoking two-fisted reigning queen of comic land will be acted by Edith Ann Blakely.

Moon Beam McSwine: This original doll has one flaw, she hates soap and water. Carol Hunter, who does like soap and water (we hope) has this supporting role.

Available Jones: For a fee this fellow will render any service from baby-sitting to plotting a murder. Court Johnston has the part.

Senator Jack S. Phlogbound: The barrel bellied, coonskin wearing civic leader has been assigned to John Batson.

Marryin Sam: The gentleman who married Daisy Mae and Li'l Abner. He performed the ceremony for $1.38. Jim Been has the clever part.

Surprise: The role of Stupefying Jones has been cast but the producers are keeping the identity of the impersonator under raps. They have promised a real surprise.

Other well known citizens of Dogpatch will also be present. These include Romeo Scragg, Earthquake McGoon, Mayor Daugment, Appassionata Van Climax, Dr. Nanmussen T. Finsdale and General Bullmoose.

Al Capp: Cartoonist, Philosopher and Humanitarian thrown out of three different schools for non-payment of

When the curtain is raised on P and G's theatrical production, Li'l Abner, the audience will witness a show that was twenty-five years in the making. The basic plot of the musical was laid bare on Monday, August 13, 1934, in seven daily American newspapers. A quarter of a century and nine hundred daily and Sunday journals later the characters, sets, and scenes were ready to go before the footlights.

Within a span of twenty-five years, Al Capp, cartoonist, philosopher and humanitarian added a new page to twentieth century life, literature and laughter.

Capp was one of four children born in New Haven, Conn., on September 28, 1909. At the age of nine he lost his leg in a streetcar accident and while recuperating over a two year period, spent many hours drawing humorous cartoons.

His teen years were characterized by three significant facts. First, he made up his mind to become a cartoonist, second, he spent a summer tramping through the Cumberland Mountains where he encountered simple hill-country folk who would later form the basis for his comic strip, and thirdly, he was

By the time Capp had reached his mid-twenties he had been thrown from the entertainment world. He had spent two years at the Massachusetts School of Art, returned to New York to work as an assistant to two leading cartoonists.

In 1934 the main character of Dogpatch had blossomed and was presented to the public. Five years later the work of Al Capp became known and appreciated from coast to coast. His public also includes the owners of one hundred papers in twenty-eight foreign countries.

Comics are supposed to be the domain of children, but in the case of Al Capp, creator of Dogpatch, a simple exception to the rule must be made. Nobel prize winning author Steinbeck once said, "I think Al Capp may be the best writer in America today. He has taken our society, our structure, our economics, and examined them gently like a microscope." bugs."

All of these qualities will be displayed in the Theatre Auditorium of W.L.U. on November 21, 22, and 23.

Chess finds its place on campus

An informal chess match took place recently between the University of Waterloo and W.L.U. in our Union Building. Dean Schaus was present to open the match.

W.L.U. took an early lead but by evening the U. of W. team closed the gap. Since the W.L.U. team won by only 1 point no one would claim a decisive victory. Miss Schacter of the U. of W. team seemed as the return match results would be different.

W.L.U. last year's inter-collegiate champions, plays the W.L.U. on November 23 at Hamilton.

The Chess Club extends an invitation to all chess players to come to the S.U.B., rooms 2 and 3, any Saturday from 7-11 p.m.

Psychiatric Treatment for Americans

NEW HAVEN, CONN. (CPS-CUP) — The use of hallucination-producing drugs has spread to Yale University, causing many undergraduates to seek psychiatric treatment, according to the Yale Daily News.

Several students have suffered serious psychoses from the drugs mescaline and psilocybin. At Harvard, assistant professor of Social Psychology, Richard Alton, was dismissed for administering the two drugs to undergraduates last spring. The use of mescaline, however, had not been previously reported at Yale.

At Yale, the hallucinogens were given by a faculty member or a physician connected with the administration. The students purchased the drugs in Mexico and took them on their own initiative in an informal experiment.

The University has not said what action it will take with the students.

Hypnotist says: Smoking can be cured

Dr. Mason, hypnotist, recently spoke to the psychology club on the various aspects of hypnosis.

Two subjects, Joan and Lorry, were hypnotized while a crowded Amphitheatre looked on. He attempted to induce Clairvoyance in one of the subjects but this failed. Dr. Mason claimed that he could hypnotize 99 out of 100 students present.

"Smoking can be cured by hypnosis" said Dr. Mason. "A hypnotist cannot charge for his services but he will treat a patient for a reasonable donation".

"Hypnosis is used in many religions and this includes Christianity" said the Doctor. He showed the group a picture in LIFE of an American evangelist who he claimed was in an hypnotic state.

He emphasized that it is illegal for a layman to practise hypnosis on others but said that self hypnosis is possible after practise.

Dr. Mason's side-stepping of many of the questions created a poor impression on those who attended.

NDF dinner last night

November 7th, at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, Dr. W. J. Villaume was featured speaker in the launching of the National Development Fund campaign.

G. Murray Davidson, Ass't. Director of University Resources says that "the canvassing for the objective, $2,100,000 should be finished by the end of January but it's very difficult to say when our objective will be reached as some companies give us pledges of up to five years."

Some 150 business executives attended the kickoff dinner. Students' Council President Archie McLean represented the students of WUC at the dinner.

Willison Hall Capers

Last week two Dons, Bill Munroe and Richard Holm were seen carrying a yellow Globe & Mail Box out of the T.V. room — very odd behaviour!

Sunday we spied a pumpkin perched high on the roof.

Monday a blazing trail of strewn garbage cans along Albert St. stopped outside the Campus.

Tuesday — Sherlock Holmes was searching for the culprits.

Wednesday — an expert knot tyer had roped four third floor door knobs together making exit for the occupants impossible.

Thursday — "Official" PUB NIGHT - undecipherable havoc, rooms ransacked, fire extinguishers foaming, even a flashing yellow road sign had apparently climbed the stairs by itself.

Flag Burners Warned

OTTAWA (CUP)—Carleton University students last week burned a Quebec provincial flag during half-time of the Carleton-Ottawa University football game according to a story in the student paper, The Carleton.

The paper featured a center-spread showing five pictures of the half-time "insensitive, unprincipled and ill-considered move executed by unthinking individuals."

After the game one goal post was destroyed and some students indicated by their actions that they had been drinking.

Carleton's student council has strongly censured the acts and Director of Student Affairs, N.D. Fenn said that the burning of the flag "in no way represents the feeling of the majority of Carleton students."

Carleton breaks ball record

OTTAWA (CUP)—Carleton University captured the inter-collegiate football run record last weekend.

Eighteen students ran the ball and the school flag, Rodney Raven, from Carleton to Loyola College, a distance of 131 miles — at an average of 9.0- miles an hour — a rate unequalled by any other Canadian university.

No more Weddings

INNSBRUCK, AUSTRIA (CUP) — Coeds are worried over the prominence of university 'confirmed bachelor clubs' which are growing at a rate of 10 per cent and have been doing so for the past three years.

One coed said that if this continues, there won't be a college man available for marriage in 10 years. The girl, 21-year-old Ilse Zweig, and a dozen other women have formed a committee to investigate this problem.

They asked the confirmed bachelors of the University of Innsbruck to tell them why and what they find wrong with marriage. The bachelors' answer: "What a man enjoys is to be pampered, fussed over and waited on. So he marries and forever after he must pamper her, fuss over her and wait, wait, and wait."

Fred Cass, Attorney General of Ontario will be on Campus November 27th, Wednesday to speak on behalf of P.C.'s.

ALUMNI RETURNS

The alumni of Waterloo University College returns to their alma mater this weekend.

Many of the grads may not have been on campus for some years. Since their last visit there have been significant changes in the physical plan of the campus. There has been a significant change in the spirit loyalty and devotion to the university by the present undergraduate students. The reason underlying the change: we are building a university in all its manifestations.

We hope that the students will demonstrate to the alumni how proud they are of WUC. This can be accomplished simply by mature and responsible conduct at all the weekend events.

We only ask that the alumni help us to build Waterloo University College so that it can take "its place in the sun" in the not too far distant future. Your interest and your support is needed . . .

Welcome Home . . .

SOME STUDENTS ARE IMMATURE

The immaturity of some WUC students has been demonstrated since the beginning of the academic year.

It is time that the offenders put away their childish and irresponsible idiosyncracies and began to act like university students.

We cite specific cases for the benefit of those who may have trouble understanding what we mean.

STOP ignoring campus traffic regulations which are imposed for your benefit as well as those who may want to be alive tomorrow.

STOP stealing food and juice from the Dining Hall. No matter what you personally feel about how much you are fed or not fed, it is not your right or privilege to steal.

SHOW maturity and common sense at campus activities. Show that you have school spirit but remember you can do your school a great deal of harm by a silly display of yourself.

"Look before you leap!"

We hope that Students' Council will deal severely with those who continue to defy the rules and regulations of the school.

Focus on Religion

by Garth Wilson

Religious Emphasis Week 1963 has all but slipped from our grasp. Our university programme with its academic and social demands necessitates the setting aside of a period of time to stress such an integral part of life as religion.

During these past four days it has been our privilege to have on our campus a notable lecturer and author in the person of Dr. Paul L. Holmer, Professor of Theology, Yale Divinity School.

Educated at the University of Minnesota where he earned the B.A. and M.A. degrees and Yale University where he gained the coveted Ph.D. degree, Dr. Holmer is a lay minister in the Augustan Lutheran Church of America.

After the completion of his education our guest served at Gustavus Adolphus College and the University of Minnesota. In addition to this Dr. Holmer has served as a visiting professor and lecturer at such notable institutions as the University of Copenhagen, Goethe University, Northwestern University and Chicago Lutheran Seminary.

Professor Holmer together with the pursuit of his duties as Professor of Theology is an Assistant of the Danforth Foundation and Treasurer of the Board of Higher Education of his church. As well as being engaged in the foregoing Dr. Holmer is Treasurer of the Swanson-Kierkegaard Memorial Trust and member of the Editorial Boards of "Theological Studies" and "Christian Scholar". He, to, is a member of the American Theological Society, American Philosophical Association, American Physical Society, Lutheran Theological Society and the Student Council on Religion in Higher Education.

Dr. Holmer too has attained success in the literary field by publishing himself in particular in numerous articles and books on Kierkegaard. These include "Kierkegaard's Edifying Discourse" and a translation of Serchi's "Kierkegaard's Edifying Discourse". In other areas he has authored numerous books such as "Philosophy of Common Life" and "Theology of the Scientific Study of Religion".

It is hoped that at least a few seeds of religious thought will have been garnered by the students we gave attention to our remarks.

STATEMENT OF JUDICIAL COMMITTEE POLICY

It has been brought to the attention of the Student Council that the department and conduct of some W.U.C. students is rapidly deteriorating.

Three incidents which have been brought to our attention are:

1. the misuse of the peg pool game in the Student Union
2. the complete disregard of some students for campus speeding and parking regulations
3. misconduct of students in the dining hall by butting in line and petty thieving.

These instances may seem insignificant to some students, but unless action is taken by you, the student body, to rectify the existing situation, the Student Council will have no recourse but to appoint a Judicial Committee to investigate the situation and to deal severely with the offenders.

Statement of Policy, Judicial Committee of Waterloo University College

To maintain decent behaviour, good conduct and proper discipline of students in all activities where the conduct or behaviour of students while engaged in such activities may involve the honour or reputation of the student body of Waterloo University College, or may be considered or alleged to be a breach of the behaviour, conduct or discipline required and expected of the students of Waterloo University College.

Support the activities of Homecoming Weekend, with a mature and responsible attitude.

Body Politic

by G. Pout Macdonald

Role of Organized Labour in Canadian Politics

The Canadian Federation of Labour, which comprises the major part of Organized Labour in Canada, affiliated with the New Democratic Party, at the New Party Founding Convention in Ottawa, 1961.

Two years later the "honey moon" between Labour and the Democrats is over. The first surge of optimism has been expended, and there have been made but they have not been as significant as expected between Labour and the New Democratic Party. The time has come for a reappraisal of the position of both organizations to see what went wrong, and why.

The reason for failure is relatively easy to determine. Although a majority of the executive members of the CFL supported the New Democratic Party, in some cases this support was only luke-warm, and in a few cases non-existent.

As for the Rank-and-File, they refused to vote as a "bloc", and instead to cast their ballots for the candidate of their choice, regardless of party-affiliation.

Another reason has been the fear that "organized labour" is already too powerful, and would become omnipotent if it were able to elect its own representatives. Thus appeared the wide-spread belief that Organized Labour would use the New Democratic Party as its political arm, and in so doing, upset the balance between Labour and the Democrats.

It is my opinion that if a Union Local in a Riding wished to support a political party (not necessarily the New Democratic Party), it should call a meeting of the members (all of them) and vote on the proposal, and any contribution to be made the Party should be from those members who wish to contribute. This would ensure that the members support the party of their choice, and is I believe a truly democratic expression of opinion by that Union.

This would ensure that any political party wishing Union Support, in order to gain this support, would have to earn it. For the New Democratic Party this would have to be done through political education at the local level by candidates. Through active participation of the New Democratic Party in community affairs, and a realization that the New Democratic Party would not then be a party of Organized Labour, but a party of Canadians. What is good for Canada being good for Labour.

There is no room in Canada for a party based on "class interests". It is my opinion that the program of the New Democratic Party, being essentially for the benefit of all Canadians, regardless of their station, HAS NO NEED, HAS NO RIGHT to appeal specifically to one segment of the population.

Labour must also realize that the "era" of oppressive labour legislation is over. The society for which they struggle is now within reach. The role of labour has changed since the war, labour must now learn that COOPERATION and RESPONSIBILITY are the keys to continued progress in Canada. The good of Canada comes first, and organized labour must not simply, or become a stumbling block in the way of progress towards a Canada which they themselves desire, but which means the continuation or abandonment of many of their previously sacrosanct "rights".

EN GARDE

Congratulations to the author of Touché! Since he is dedicated to a column of constructive criticism, it may be presumed he intends to launch a new service organization on campus. If he is as successful in a new membership policy as he is confident he will be, such an organization and ours can surely

Our past service on campus can unquestionably be improved by following a first-class example, if one does become available. In the hope that the author of Touché will allow us the benefit of his experience in his new program, we now wish to offer him the benefit of our modest experience.

ALL THE ANSWERS AND NO SOLUTIONS

From Waterloo to Ottawa and now to Washington. Touché will look at the American political arena and make some observations on the Republican Party's attempt to at least put up a show when they tangle with the Kennedy's in '64.

No University Degree

Running lengths ahead of all other competitors in the race for the G.O.P. nomination is Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona. The man without even one university degree is threatening to take the leadership of the Party conspicuously devoid of thinkers, writers, artists or intellectuals.

It is hard to imagine the Party of Lincoln groveling in the scum of American thinkers for a leader. The Great Emancipator charted his party on a course of true progressive political ideas. It gave America its first anti-trust legislation, its first significant conservation legislation and it freed the slaves.

Not Like Teddy and Abe

After Theodore Roosevelt left the White House he was followed by such dull backward Republicans as Taft, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover, Eisenhower and nearly Nixon. Now the free world is being threatened by Barry Goldwater.

Dwight Eisenhower shunned the thinkers but Goldwater is publicly scorning them. The political progress of the western world and the assumption of the leadership of this world by the Americans has been due, almost entirely to small liberals - Woodrow Wilson, FDR, Lincoln, etc. How much of this progress will Goldwater destroy or retard?

Flag Waver

This man has advocated the invasion of Cuba, withdrawal from the United Nations, the cutting off of foreign aid and the maintenance of existing electoral machinery on both state and federal levels. When any new idea comes along which might extend constitutional rights Barry Goldwater finds some excuse to oppose it. It doesn't matter whether negroes who have never voted are involved or the poor white trash farmers who overwhelmingly dominate city dwellers in state legislatures and some congressional districts, Barry waves the worn and tattered states' rights banner.

200 Years Behind

The most recent example of his seventeenth century thinking came out at the recent 73rd birthday party of ex-President Eisenhower. Goldwater compared the governing prowess of Kennedy and Eisenhower by their respective entertaining policies. Kennedy is a bad president because he allowed twisting in the ball room of the White House, so declared the Senator from Arizona. The Republican elite roared in approval when tossed this meaty intellectual morsel.

Barry Goldwater has refuted the theory that the federal government should enforce the constitutional rights of American citizens even when ordered to do so by the Supreme Court. The Federal Government must take the deal in electoral reform and the social legislation required by the aged. Goldwater has washed his hands of this responsibility. He could do irreparable harm but as this is written the American people don't seem to be inclined to give him a chance.

Where Shopping is a Pleasure

Mikel looks at . . . Ptolemy's Brother

"Cartography owes a lot to Ptolemy", said Professor Harry Keuper. He meant of course, Claudius Ptolemy, an ancient Egyptian who contributed a great deal to the early history of map making. But what of Basil Ptolemy? Basil, unfortunately, spent most of his life in the shadow of his more famous brother. He didn't mind, it was one of the coolest spots in Egypt. However, the world is entitled to know of his accomplishments, and in future he may rate a mention on the wall of somebody's tomb.

Unlike Claudius, who was born in the second century, Basil was born in the fourth century. This put quite a strain on their mother. His early childhood was uneventful, except perhaps for a brief appearance in a Lowell Thomas travelogue. From Mr. Thomas he inherited a love of the outdoors, and for a year worked as a fishing guide for the king of Egypt. These adventures were later published as "Fish and Cheops".

But Basil is best remembered as an inventor, and it was in this calling that he spent most of his life. As a young man he realized the desert was covered with sand. Taking home some loose material (sand), he invented the hourglass, a device he marketed as the "Sands of Time". With the royalties received he introduced "Tel Avivision" on the Mediterranean Coast. The nomads loved it and watched everything but the English Channel. The favourite programme was "Hit the Nile on the Head," a dissipated quiz show in which contestants were asked to pick Cleopatra's next lover. But while the Bedouins played, Basil worked and finally hit the jackpot with his greatest invention, the camel. People laughed at his water tank on legs, but it sold. His original model carried a five day supply, just enough for local trips. Soon he was pressed for a long distance model. With the aid of two large rocks he converted many five day beasts into seven day beasts. This used to hurt the camels. To insure a market for surplus humps he invented Parisian bellringers, and some years later collected a tidy sum when the patent was sold to one Victor Hugo. Dead animals were sent to the tobacco factory for processing, and large "Khartoums" were shipped all over the world. The brand became very popular in North America.

His spirit of inventiveness, gin, was shipped, via the camel, to many outlying areas of Egypt, and oasis owners paid fortunes for beasts with alcoholic bellies and bloodshot humps. Always concerned with the lot of his fellow Egyptians, he died searching for a way to keep young girls who didn't like waiting four thousand years to be mummies.

His life story, published in Egypt some years ago under the title "I put Ptolemy Eggs in one Basket", is recommended reading for students of archeology or camels.

No Money for Religion

PH (CUP) — An editorial student newspaper of the Guelph Collegiate Institute took the students' council last week for giving religious clubs on campus. The editorial read in part: "The union of church and state is fundamental in our society. It is essential to protect the freedom of laws, Christians, agnostics, or other beliefs are represented in our community. Union Council is upholding this principle in handing money to certain clubs on campus." The editorial continued by saying that a non-Roman Catholic should be asked to support the New Year Club or a non-Anglican, the University Club. This year the club will be giving some $900 to religious clubs.

Leupold only Canadian on two Committees

The Rev. Dr. Ulrich S. Leupold, dean of Waterloo Lutheran Seminary, has been named the only Canadian on two special committees of the Lutheran Church in America.

One is a seven-man committee appointed to prepare a statement on the church's communion practices. It will tackle many practical problems concerning the Lord's supper, including the use of wine or grape juice, the common cup or individual glasses, and holding Holy Communion outside of pre-determined worship services.

The second is a group of ten liturgical and music experts to serve on the Commission on the Liturgy and Hymnal, an agency of the American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America. The commission is responsible for the content, editing and format of all editions of the Lutheran Service book and hymnal.

Council members comment.

Pro and Con to Canadian Union of Students

At a regular Wednesday meeting, Waterloo University College Students Council debated a decision to retain membership in Canadian Union of students.

Discussion was highlighted by a motion by Bob Powadiuk, Freshman President, "that Students Council stay with CUS and do all in our power to further what our Students Council thinks the organization should accomplish".

The motion carried by one, with one abstention.

Following are the remarks of some members of Council.

Commented Bill McLeod, Senior Class President, "I was against CUS before, and I am against it now. I will contribute any ideas which I may have to improve the structure of C.U.S."

"I detest the fact that four French Canadian Universities have power equal to that of all other Canadian Universities involved in this organization."

"I detest even further the sleezy voting practise, i.e. the abstention of the Vice-President of the Junior Class of W.U.C. to allow the motion to pass."

Dave Pady, Sophomore vice-president said, "I feel Waterloo University College needs to stay in C.U.S. We should offer constructive criticism to try and rectify the problems that we now see in C.U.S.

"The C.U.S. Committee of Waterloo University College has a two fold task in that it must give the students of this University a better idea of what C.U.S. can do for them and what it offers: And it is up to the committee to send delegates to the next congress to express other feelings."

Larry Hanson, President of the Junior Class and a member of the committee studying C.U.S. remarked, "I feel very strongly about staying in C.U.S. in order to revamp the organization to the best of our ability to serve the purpose we think it should.

"The interest shown here tonight was tremendous. I hope they come up with a workable solution."

Tony Liberta, C.U.S. committee chairman declared, "I am pleased with the decision to stay in C.U.S. and to take an active part in it."

"But there are many weaknesses in C.U.S., for example, the misdirection of their energies, and their funds. These must be rectified."

Engineers again demolish fence, arrested

TORONTO (CUP)—Metropolitan Toronto police last week caught about 50 U of T students, predominantly engineers, demolishing a fence on a street near the campus.

A member of the executive committee of the Engineering Society was one of four detained by police. When he submitted his resignation to the Society, they rejected his resignation and accepted full responsibility for the incident.

The Engineers were going to use the fence for materials for their float for the U of T Homecoming celebrations.

A Trip to Latin America

The Canadian Union of Students is looking for a Spanish speaking Canadian student to represent Canada at future student conferences in Latin America.

CUS national president, David Jenkins said: "It is important that CUS be represented at certain events in Latin America. Canada's students, through NFCUS, have gained a great deal of respect for this country in international student affairs in the past. We must strengthen this tradition."

Any Spanish speaking Canadian student who is attending an institute of higher learning which is a member of CUS may apply.

All expenses involved would be borne by CUS using international sources of funds.

Interested students should write to David Jenkins, CUS National President, Suite 406, 45 Rideau, Ottawa.

Premier Robarts says no room for frills - funds scarce

TORONTO — Premier John Robarts warned Ontario's universities recently there will be no room for frills in university expansion in the years ahead.

Because of the rapidly increasing student population, said Mr. Robarts, frills and the ornamental may have to give way to the practical.

Mr. Robarts made these remarks as he officially opened four new buildings at York University.

The Premeier reviewed the Ontario government's record of support for higher education and its plans to meet the demands of a student population expected to expand from 35,000 this year to 100,000 by 1970.

Referring to the years ahead, when the cost of providing university facilities in Canada are expected to reach $1.75 billion, he said:

Financial Sacrifices

"I believe the people of this province are willing to make the necessary financial sacrifices to give Ontario a system of education from kindergarten to graduate school that is second to none.

"But I also believe that we have the right to ask our universities to spend their money with the greatest discretion so that we might feel that the sacrifice is not all one-sided."

More than $200,000,000 had been allocated for university grants during the past four years, including $70,000,000 in the present year, he said.

"But the provincial treasury is not a bottomless well of resources," he continued.

"Undoubtedly our universities must rate a high priority, but they must merit that position on the basis of the work they do but by making themselves to be the most possible users of public money."

Freedom Delightful

Dr. Murray Ross, York University president, in an address preceding Premier's, said universities are delighted to be free despite their dependence on Government funds.

"That we have avoided this in Ontario is a great tribute to the wise and able men at Queen's Park."

Dr. Ross said, however, that universities want to remain free; they must be sensitive to the need.

Advice to the Fishbowl Gang

by Linda McKenzie

There is a subversive element in school bent on undermining the principles of moral and ethical behaviour.

On referring, of course to the innumerable stream of students using and abusing the "fishbowl" between the main doors of Women's Residence. Any time of the day, and especially within the minutes of curfew, one may see students here in degrees and attitudes varying from hand-shaking to passionate embrace.

There can be only three reasons for the popularity of this "necker's perhaps the couple takes a vicarious pleasure in watching everyone else. If this be the case, I suggest that the couple subscribe to "Confessions". There can be nothing so thrilling to surpass that in which you put yourself in the shoes of the hero or heroine, whichever your preference might be.

Perhaps the boy is a little unorthodox in his technique and hopes that casual observation will solve his problem. In this instance, he should have a long talk with an authority in the subject — namely, an upper-classman.

Or maybe the pair happen to be exhibitionists who want to share their superior style with the world. And share it they will, for those in the fishbowl are not watched merely by their fellow occupants. The glass doors afford a beautiful view for anyone in the foyer, including the ever present proctor, as well as anyone on the mezzanine, the hall outside A wing or the stairs leading to B wing. So, enjoy your audience, kids!

It might also be appropriate to say something to those innocent bystanders who merely want to use the hallway as a means to entering the building. When there are only two occupants, it is quite easy to look the other way, but when there is "breathing room only," it is rather difficult to avoid meeting some outraged or embarrassed eyes. And while I'm on the subject, nothing can be more nauseating than walking into the passion pit at 10:30 in the morning and finding a couple just as wrapped up in each other (pardon the pun) as they were at one o'clock the previous night.

Besides, it can be a little disconcerting to hear the same 's'weet nothin's" being whispered tenderly into the ears of twelve different girls at the same time!

WLU Senate adds Three Members

New appointees to the Senate of Waterloo Lutheran University are The Hon. Walter F. Schroeder, justice of the High Court of Ontario; Mr. W. Herbert Schmalz, general manager, tire and general products division, Dominion Rubber Co. Ltd.; Mr. Reginald Arthur Haney, partner in the Waterloo law firm of McGibbon, Harper & Haney.

Mr. Justice Schroeder has been a justice of the Ontario High Court since 1945. He was born in Ottawa and received his early education at Ottawa elementary schools. A graduate of Concordia College, Fort Wayne, Indiana, and Osgoode Hall, Toronto, he was called to the Bar of Ontario in 1924 and created a King's Counsel in 1938. An active Lutheran, he is also a member of the executive committee of the National Development Fund of Waterloo University College.

Mr. Schmalz is a graduate in agricultural science in chemistry from the University of Toronto, he is a member of the Chemical Institute of Canada and the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Mr. Haney was born in Hanover, Ontario, and is a graduate of Waterloo University College and Osgoode Hall. He is a member of the Canadian Bar Association and the Waterloo County Law Association.

In addition to his position on the WLU Senate he is a member of the property committee and the committee on wills and bequests, Waterloo Lutheran University.

Hawks move to second place-Defeat Ottawa 35-12

On Saturday, the Hawks proved that they are the class of the O.I.-F.C. with a 37-12 defeat of the highly rated University of Ottawa Gee-Gees. However, McMaster defeated Loyola 38-0 and therefore is assured of at least a first place tie. This would come about if they are beaten by Carleton while the Hawks defeat the Plumbers. Unfortunately, the title is Mac's regardless of this week end's results due to the wording of the league constitution.

In Saturday's game Waterloo's rushing was again superb. The entire offensive line of Erwin, Byers, Huston, Ross, Egerton, Mitchell, and Doran is to be congratulated on the excellent job they did in springing Turek and Favot loose time after time.

Ed Turek again was the leading ground gainer. He picked up 221 yards in 21 carries for an impressive 10.5 average. Ed is now the league's leading rusher.

Ted Favot, doing most of the inside running, carried 24 times for 118 yards, a 5 yard average.

The effect of adverse climatic conditions can be readily seen in the passing statistics. Jimmy Randle attempted only five passes of which two were completed. One to Doran for 11 yards and one of 15 yards to Charlie Reiner who was playing in his first game since September. The Gee-Gees completed only 1 of 7 for 15 yards.

Waterloo's total offence was 377 yards rushing and 26 yards passing. Ottawa had 210 rushing and 15 passing.

Mitchell kicked only twice for 33.5 yard average and the Ottawa punter averaged 31 yards on six kicks. Mitch was roughed three different times in the process of punting and this led many of the fans to comment that he should perhaps be using his hereto unknown acting prowess in the P & G Show.

Certainly the most important statistic is that of the penalties. It is safe to say that, without the rash of penalties Ottawa was assessed, the score would have been much closer. They were nailed with 133 yards while Waterloo was penalized only 30. A majority of the Ottawa penalties were called on third down plays, thus permitting the Hawks to maintain possession of the ball and continue their downfield marches.

Ted Favot scored three touchdowns on runs of one, ten, and twenty-three yards. Turek accounted for two of the other three six-pointers on runs of 9 and 6 yards. He also had one long run of 73 yards but was tackled on the Ottawa five yard line. Paul Heinbecker rounded out the scoring on a five yard run. Only one of the six convert attempts was successful.

This Saturday we meet the University of Waterloo Warriors at Seagram Stadium. And since it is homecoming weekend for both schools each team should be up for the game, so the Plumbers will likely be no push-overs.

CHRONICLE PHOTO

"DID HE MAKE IT?" That's what Jim Grant asks as he looks up after having helped clear a path to pay-dirt for the Hawks Ted Favot, #33, as the big fullback scores.

To Hockey & Basketball as Football Season closes

by Doug Brown

The Football season ends on Saturday, and we hope that our success in football will carry over into basketball and hockey. Both begin this month at WUC. Both teams have a nucleus of returnees from last year, and, if for this reason alone, we can look forward to a fairly successful season in both sports.

The league has been somewhat altered this year, and WUC has been placed in the "A" division of both the basketball and hockey leagues. Under this new plan each league will be divided into two groups, A and B, consisting of four teams each. At the end of the regular season the first place finisher of each division will play off for the championship.

In basketball WUC will go to the University of Ottawa; In hockey, to Laurentian and Ryerson will be in opposition.

Of the twelve members of the basketball team, eight are returnees. They are Gary... Dart, Bob Woodburn, John... Bob Eaton, Ed Ochilna... Turner. The new rookies are Doyle, Don Collins, Ted... Rick Gorman.

Most of last year's hockey team is returning and they have a good chance of improving on last year's second place finish.

November 15 is the first of the season as we meet the University of Toronto and on November 22 the basketball team will be playing a two day tournament at Brock.
