

OSAP—problems, problems, problems

by Barry Ries

Haven't heard from OSAP yet? Well, you're not the only one.

Horace Braden, Director of Placement and Student Awards at WLU, told the Cord that while applications for the Ontario Student Awards Program (OSAP) are down 25% from last year, which would ordinarily mean less work and faster service, the Student Awards office has only received 400 completed returns from Toronto, down from 1200 at this time last year.

Why the slowdown? Mr. Braden blames most of the delay on the new OSAP forms and the changes in entitlement. The staff in the Student Awards office had to be trained to handle the new forms. The error rate on the applications completed by students is also higher than last year, meaning a delay of several weeks if the forms are not completed properly and the error is not caught in the initial check.

Mr. Braden also informed us that the slowdown was aggravated due to the government not starting the computer processing until June instead of the usual mid-May start up date.

Bill Clarkson, Director of Student Awards for the Ministry of Colleges and Universities, Toronto, confirmed that there were some errors in the computer programming up until July, causing some slowdown until the errors were corrected. He also confirmed Mr. Braden's statement that the return rate is higher this year due to the increased number of mistakes on the applications.

To date, the Ministry has received some 60,000 applications for student assistance, down from 80,000 last year. Mr. Clarkson stated that the current backlog of 12,000 is slightly higher than usual, and while some of this can be explained by the computer programming errors, he also told the Cord that there was a "big flood" of applications in July and August this year, contrary to the usual pattern of earlier applications.

Why the late rush? Both Mr. Braden and Mr. Clarkson blame misinformation and "badmouthing" of the new program by organizations such as the Ontario Federation of Students. Students were unsure as to where they stood regarding loans and grants this year and held-off submitting their applications until they had determined if they were affected. (The new regulations this year include providing statements of assets, a release for Income Tax information, special regulations for anyone who has been in school more than eight terms, etc.)

Mr. Braden said that whereas an application would normally be returned from the Ministry of Colleges and Universities six weeks after it was sent in by the Student Awards Office, delays of eight to twelve weeks are not unusual this year.

What does it mean? If your student award is late and you only have 73¢ in your jeans, it won't do any good to complain in the Student Awards office. You just have to wait and try to borrow enough from mommy and daddy or your friends.

If you haven't applied for Student Assistance because you aren't sure you qualify, you still have time, but hurry. Applications are available in the Student Awards Office.

Dr. Neale Taylor, new president

Dr. Neale Taylor

Dr. Neale Taylor is the new President of Wilfrid Laurier University. As of August 1st, he has been occupying this important position. Taylor said his job description is about three pages long, but in summary he is the chief executive officer at WLU who is responsible for the university's functioning in all areas.

Dr. Taylor is a graduate of the University of Toronto where he received his BA, MA, and PHD in Romantic Languages. He also studied Spanish at the National University of Mexico and French at Laval University in Quebec.

For twenty years, Dr. Taylor taught Italian and Spanish at Toronto. He was also on the U of T Faculty of Graduate Studies for 10 years. In 1962, he became the chairman of the Romantic Language department at WLU. Dr. Taylor was Dean of Arts and Science at Laurier from 1968-1972. In 1972, he was appointed Vice-President Academic, and in 1974-1975 he was the acting President while Dr. Peters, the former President, was on sabbatical.

During the next 5 or 6 years, Dr. Taylor sees financing as the biggest challenge facing the university. He said declining revenues are not matching the expenditures due to inflation and government policy. The decreasing number of students applying for university education is another factor influencing financing.

The new President's major goal is to preserve and further develop WLU's reputation and faculties. He "will meet regularly with WLUSU executive to encourage student participation in university life." Dr. Taylor says he will be happy to meet and talk with students.

Office changes

If you happened to be looking for the President's Office and you can't seem to find it, there is a good reason—it's moved. As of August 1, the Office of the President and Vice-President-Academic have been relocated to Centre Hall, which is behind the Student Union Building. While we're on the subject of moving, the Business Office is now in Room 3C15.

Parking lot vanishes

On Tuesday, September 5, the bulldozers began breaking the ground for a new building. Construction was supposed to have begun in July, but it was delayed by an Ontario-wide carpenter's strike.

Ball Brothers Ltd. of Kitchener have been awarded the contract to build the 70,000 square foot structure at a contract price of $3,390,000. It was the lowest of 10 tenders received. The Ministry of Colleges and Universities will pay $3,300,000 and the remainder of the cost will come from the Universities reserves. According to the contract, the building should be finished 18 months after construction began, which is about March 1980.

The new building will be called the Frank C. Peters Professional Building in honour of the recently retired President. It will house the School of Business and Economics and the faculty of Social Work. The administrative offices of the President the Vice-President-Academic will also be located in the building. While construction is going on, the business offices will be renovated.

Some of the portables will be replaced by this new building. There will be enough space for 1,400 full-time students and 56 faculty members from the School of Business and Economics and the Faculty of Social Work.

Registration report shows small gain

A preliminary report on fall registration at Wilfrid Laurier University indicates that overall full-time undergraduate enrolment will be virtually the same this year as last year.

James Wilgar, university registrar, said he expects that about 3,014 students will be enrolled by the middle of the month, compared with 2,986 a year ago.

The university is maintaining steady enrolment, even though applications for admission grew by 9.7 per cent this year. Only a few universities experienced an increase in applications this fall.

Mr. Wilgar broke down the figures this way (with last year's in brackets):

Arts and science registration 1,456 (1,606); School of Business and Economics 1,028 (983); Faculty of music 125 (124); mail registration 295 (173); and late registration 110 expected this year (100 at this date last year).

"It can be seen," Mr. Wilgar said, "that the decline in arts and science students, general across the province, was to some extent offset for us by a rise in those entering the school of business and economics."

Radio Laurier

by Beatrice McMillan

Radio Laurier is busy linking up all available campus locations to provide programming to a wider audience. Last year, broadcasting stopped in January while repairs were made to the residence sound systems. With technical problems overcome, a final check is now being conducted on the cross-campus system which will extend through all the residences, the games room, the Torque Room and the Dining Hall.

Meanwhile, the station has had trouble trying to obtain a licence from the Canadian Radio-Television Commission (CRTC). The application to expand Radio Laurier's signal throughout the community through the cable system has been turned down for the second time in two years.

When asked about this latest refusal by the CRTC to allow the application, Larry Greenberg, station manager, said "The reason for the refusal was due to technical difficulties dealing with the status of our station." He would not elaborate.

P.E.I. Premier Resigns

The Toronto Globe and Mail, which styles itself as 'Canada's National Newspaper', reported the resignation of PEI Premier Alex Campbell in a small page 9 article on September 12. We can do better than that.

New vice-president-academic

Dr. John Weir

Former chairman of the department of Economics, Dr. John Weir, is the new Vice-President-Academic of WLU.

Dr. Weir received his Bachelor of Commerce at St. Dunstan's University in Charlottetown, P.E.I. For his graduate work, he attended University of Western Ontario where he received his Master of Business and Administration. Dr. Weir received his doctorate of Economics at Notre Dame University in South Bend, Indiana.

Between 1961-65, Dr. Weir taught at University of Manitoba and he was the chairman of their Department of Economics and Sociology for three years.

In 1965, he became a professor at WLU. From 1969-1978, he was the chairman of Laurier's Department of economics.

As of August 1, Dr. Weir had been occupying the position of Vice-President; Academic. He says his job is to "allocate academic resources of the university in such a way that all faculties will be treated fairly, while at the same time insuring that the university's academic interests are always protected."

All the Deans report to him as well as the library personnel and the Registrar. Dr. Weir is also the chairman of the combined faculty council which meets about four times a year.

Dr. Weir sees his greatest challenge as the improvement of academic excellence at a time when financial resources are declining. In the next couple of years, these resources have to be used more efficiently.

A review of Turret house rules

The Turret, for the uninitiated, is the only place on campus licenced to serve alcoholic beverages(booze) on a permanent basis. Like anything else of relevance in our society, it is subject to rules and regulations set by the government. Failure to abide by these rules and regulations is frowned on rather severely. Banishment from the pub can hamper your social life. Suspension from the University can hamper your life life. Don't be a problem—obey the following rules and protect our licence.

1. You must be 18 to enter the licenced premises. As of Jan. 1/75, all those who were not 18 by year's end must wait until their 19th birthday.
2. You must show I.D. when entering the facilities, or upon request. This I.D. is for proof of age and school affiliation.
3. Service of alcoholic beverages is only available to students, faculty, staff, and their registered guests. No member may sign in more than three guests. Anyone you sign in, you are responsible for.
4. Only one door is to be used for entrance and exit. All other doors are for fire purposes only.
5. Don't carry out alcoholic beverages when you leave. The Turret does not operate a take-out service.
6. Don't table-hop with your drink.
7. Gambling, use of illegal drugs, drunkenness, quarrelsome or orderly conduct, are not permitted.
8. Seats cannot be held. The Turret does not accept reservations, either.
9. The management reserves the right to refuse admission and/or service to any person.
10. All patrons and their drinks must disappear within one half hour after the bar closes. That means 6:30 p.m. and 12:30 a.m.
11. Don't attempt to steal or borrow the tables or chairs or anything else.
12. Don't abuse the facilities. If you wish to be remembered in this world, write a book. Don't carve your initials in the ceiling.
13. Treat the place as if it were your own. If you don't treat you own too well, treat it as if it were your mother's. If you still don't understand, go somewhere else.

These regulations are necessary in order to provide a decent place. What they all boil down to is this: be civilized. The prices are right, the atmosphere is congenial. Let's keep it that way.

Landlord and tenant: some legal tips

Many students will be renting apartments for the first time this year. It is important to know the rights and duties you will have as a tenant.

A written tenancy agreement is generally called a lease. The terms in the agreement become binding on the date set for the commencement of the tenancy regardless of when the tenant takes actual possession. They remain binding for the entire duration of the tenancy agree- by mutual consent of all parties who signed or agreed to it. Any term that conflicts with the Landlord and Tenant Act is not legal and cannot be enforced.

To be considered a tenant you must have exclusive possession of the premises, although the agreement may contain some restrictions as to how the premises may be used.

Negotiating the Tenancy Agreement

Read the entire lease before you sign; make sure you understand all the clauses listed in the lease. Don't be afraid to ask questions if you have any. Keep written, dated notes of any explanations given at this time.

You may need them for proof of the Landlord's intention later on.

If there is a clause in the lease you object to ask to have it struck out or changed before you sign.

What to look for

The lease often contains clauses specifying:

1. which UTILITIES the tenant will have to pay for;
2. that the OCCUPANCY of the unit is restricted only to those persons named in the agreement; this could prevent you from changing roommates or taking in extra ones without approval;
3. that the landlord's consent is required before SUBLETTING or that his approval is required for ALTERATIONS or RE-DECORATION;
4. that only those VERBAL PROMISES written into the lease are binding on the landlord. (If the landlord promises to paint or replace an appliance such as a refrigerator or stove, make sure it's written into the agreement.);
5. that the landlord DISCLAIMS liability for injury or damage as listed.

ALL OF THESE CLAUSES ARE ENFORCEABLE if you agree to them by signing the lease or tenancy agreement.

Copy of Tenancy Agreement

A tenant who signs or renews a lease or written tenancy agreement is entitled to receive a signed copy within twenty-one (21) days. If no copy is received by that time, all the tenant's obligations under the lease, including rent payments, are temporarily suspended until it is received.

Rental Payments

The landlord can ask you to pay your rent in cash. You don't have the automatic right to pay by cheque or mail, but the landlord can agree to let you do so.

You are not legally obliged to pay your rent by post-dated cheques at the landlord's request, but you can agree to do so if you wish.

Rental Unit Condition report

It's a good idea to have the landlord fill out and sign this type of form, noting any existing damage or defects at the time you move in, not before. Keep your copy to refer to when you're ready to move out. That way the landlord can't try to recover later on for damage caused by someone else.

Deposits

The landlord can ask for a rent deposit equal to the last month's rent, and this can only be used to cover the actual final month's rent. It cannot be used, for example, to pay for repairs or to cover rent arrears for another month.

A tenant is entitled to receive 6% interest per year on this rent deposit from the landlord, payable each year.

A landlord who wants to recover from a tenant for damage to the unit, now has to apply to a judge of the County Court, who may either order the tenant to make or pay for the repairs, or order the tenancy terminated. The landlord CANNOT deduct any amount for damage from the prepaid rent without a court order.

Deposit with Offer to Lease

Some landlords ask for a deposit when you sign an application or offer to lease as proof of your intention to enter into the tenancy agreement. Check to see if the landlord actually intends to credit this amount against the rent if your offer to lease is accepted.

If for some reason you do not actually sign the lease later on, you will probably lose this deposit, since this type of deposit has not been specifically prohibited in the Landlord and Tenant Act.

This deposit would only be returned to you if you withdrew your offer to lease before the landlord accepted, or if your offer was refused.

Commission of University affairs

CUA is an organization within the Wilfrid Laurier University Student Union (WLUSU) that is concerned with political activities taking place within both the Student Union and the University itself. Generally speaking, its purpose is to maintain and make available relevant information pertaining to WLUSU Bylaws and Regulations; to supply minutes and related documents from meetings of the WLUSU Board of Directors, the WLU Senate, and the WLU Board of Governors; and to maintain a file of correspondence and other information related to developments with the Ontario Federation of Students. The Commission can provide a very useful service for all students, from those who want to get involved, to those who have complaints or problems and need information.

There are currently seven members on the staff of the Commission. People are now being sought to fill the positions of Information Co-ordinator and Manual Program Co-ordinator. In addition, the Commission is looking for volunteers to sit on the following committees: Inter-Residence Council, Advisory Council on Off-Campus Housing, Parking Committee, and Food Services Committee.

Anyone interested in becoming involved or who would like more information about the Commission is encouraged to phone 884-1360, or drop into the office on the main floor of the Student Union Building.

comment

Gee. September again.
 This year, I'm going to work. I really am.
 I'm going to do the readings. I will attend the seminars.
 I will not cut nine o'clock classes. I will actually use the texts for which I have so far paid out $111.45. I will put more work into my essays. I will not put them off until the last week and end up pounding them out in one night.
 I will study. I will play the game. I will endeavour to get to know the profs. I will seek their advice even when I don't need it. I will certainly seek it when I do need it.
 I will ask questions. Sometimes I will ask questions when I know the answer. Profs like this. It is called participation.
 I will study for exams even though I always bomb them.
 I will not be negative.
 I will participate in the life of this university even if it cuts into my drinking time. I will always try to remember that it is the things you do outside of what you have to that look good on a resume. I will write better sentences.
 I will try to leave the occasional tip for the Turret staff.
 I will be charitable to the fish and fowl that God has placed on this planet. They have a right to an education too.
 I will not be negative.
 I will try to make the world a better place to live in. I will start by cleaning my apartment.
 I will endeavour to get to know as many people as possible.
 I may need to borrow money in January.
 I will encourage people to work on the Cord.
 I will try to find out why the Cord is called the Cord.
 I will learn to unfold my copy of the Cord so that it is right-side-up the first time.
 Ph.D. does not mean Piled higher and Deeper. I will find out what it does mean.
 I will not be negative.
 I will find out why the pub closes between six and eight.
 I will write better editorials.
 I will read all my textbooks. Even if they are identical to my lecture notes.
 I will avoid boors unless they are buying.
 I will work my tail off and get A's on all my assignments.
 I will encourage people to work on the Cord.
 I will spread the word far and wide that if you are interested in writing or photography or typing or dark-room work or learning layout or soliciting advertising you should phone 884-2990 or come up to the Student Publications office on the second floor of the Student Union Building.
 I will write better editorials. Promise.

Get involved

First year students do not get involved in university activities. Unfortunately neither do many returning students. Some students say they are too shy to join an organization if they don't know anybody in it, but apathy is the most obvious reason—although probably the least admitted one. Students just don't care about what's going on and then they complain about the $75 students fee. They say they don't have enough time to get involved, and yet they spend three hours in the Torque Room, one hour in the Games Room and two and a half hours drinking in the pub. Worse yet, although they participate in nothing, they complain about everything.

What's there to get involved in? Well, there's all the small clubs. Just ask the WLUSU secretary to refer you to the Small Clubs Co-ordinator. The Board of Student Activities needs volunteers for their special events (like Oktoberfest and Winter Carnival). Those who are interested in political work can approach the Commission of University Affairs to work on one of the many committees dealing with various aspects of the university. For aspiring disc jockeys and radio technicians, Radio Laurier offers a chance to gain experience. Then, of course, there's Students Publications which is always eager to welcome new reporters, photographers, and typists.

There's a lot of other things to get involved in. If a student is interested he or she will find something to do.

Why bother? Well, a student can experience a sense of personal satisfaction when he knows he is contributing to a school organization or club. He gets to meet lots of people and have a lot of fun. Sometimes a record of participation in university organization looks good on the job resume.

If you're not interested in getting involved, you obviously don't care how 75 of your hard-earned dollars are spent.

Summer follies

by John Webster

The summer months did not bear a federal election much to the inconvenience and expense of all federal parties. What it did bear was a mad scramble by the Liberals to come up with economic measures and cutbacks suitable for delivering in an election package. Yet how can a government that cuts back on expenses and still manages to achieve a greater deficit argue that it has sound fiscal management? The one bright spot for the Liberals may be that Parizeau's coup ended up going nowhere and Chretien gets the last laugh. The analysts concern themselves with the election. What is the prime minister up to? I would think that there is little strategy involved in indecision. It must be a terrible burden for a man who cannot run an efficient cabinet meeting to decide on when to have an election. Even cabinet ministers cannot get it straight when or when not to phone judges.

It is, of course, unfair to expect too much of the federal government in the summer months as parliament is on holiday. It may be a good thing!

Thanks gang

Hi, and a great big welcome back to all the Laurier students! As Production Manager of the Cord, I will be thanking all those who help out each week by volunteering their time for typing, layout and other odd jobs around the office. We are a busy group, and the help is much appreciated. Our production nights are Monday and Tuesday at 7:00, so if anyone out there wants to help or just find out what we do, feel free to come up to our office on the second floor of the Student Union Building (fondly referred to as the SUB) — our office is right around the corner from the Games Room. This week, some new faces arrived on the scene to provide some much-needed assistance. Thanks to Carl for the pics, Mary, Sandy, and Marie for the typing, to Jill and Cathy for offering to type (even if we didn't have anything for you this afternoon), and to all the new editors, who helped a lot with their individual sections, while I tried to teach them some new and somewhat confusing formulas and layout rules. Hope to see more of you here next week, and enjoy this first issue of the Cord.

Student Publications would like to ask all Students, Staff and Faculty to check their 78-79 yellow wall calendar to ensure that it was printed properly. If a month should be missing please bring it up to the Student Publications Office on the 2nd floor of the Student Union Building and we will gladly exchange it. We think that five may have been misprinted and we would not like to cause any inconvenience to anyone (such as having some people on campus celebrate Christmas in November.)

Legal effects of drug use

Courtesy of the Preventive Law Program, University of Ottawa

There is a large amount of controversy about whether drugs have harmful physical and psychological side effects. There is no doubt however that drug use has harmful legal side effects.

The most common criminal charges are:

1. possession
2. possession with intent to traffic
3. trafficking
4. importing and exporting

1. Possession of any narcotic is illegal unless it is authorized by the Narcotic Control Act or the Food and Drug Act.

If you are picked up on a charge of simple possession the Crown must prove that:

- the drug in question is illegal. If your friendly neighbourhood dealer sells you what you thought was grass and it turns out to be oregano you obviously won't be convicted of possession—it must be an illegal substance.
- you had knowledge of the drug.
- you had the drug in your possession or consented to its being held by someone else. You must have control over the drug. Eg: a few friends are sitting around the apartment smoking but you aren't. Police enter and charge all of you with joint possession. You would probably be convicted because you had physical control — it's your apartment and your presence implied consent to possession of the joint by your friends.

For a first offence the Crown will likely choose to go by sum-

Graduate Admissions Test

Registration materials for the following tests are now available in Career Services (lower floor, Student Services Centre):

- Dental Aptitude Test (DAT)
- Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT)
- Graduate Record Examination (GRE)
- Law School Admission Test (LSAT)
- Medical College Admission Test (MCAT)
- Miller Analogies Test (MAT)
- Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL)

Those planning to take one or more of the admission tests required by graduate and professional schools are advised to register for the tests immediately. A disruption in mail service could prevent those who delay from being registered for the early fall examinations.

mary conviction. The penalty will vary depending on the type and quantity of the drug, your attitude and behaviour and your record.

If you are picked up outside of a bar with 1 or 2 joints in your pocket and charged with possession what could you expect?

In practice the police might not charge if:

- The quantity possessed appears to be only for personal use,
- The drug is grass, and
- it is your first offence.

If you are charged the Judge can choose from these options:

a) Absolute discharge: even though you are found guilty of possession you are not punished or fined. This is very rare.

b) Conditional discharge: the Judge will set a time period during which you cannot get picked up again. If you don't break the law again within this time period you will not be fined or punished.

c) a fine.

d) jail (very rare for a first offence).

Note: You have no conviction with either an absolute or conditional discharge but you should apply to have the registration of your discharge removed.

2. Possession with Intent to Traffic

You will be charged with possession with intent to traffic if the police find you:

- in possession of a suspicious quantity of an illegal drug, (an amount larger than that which would be required for personal use.)
- with any equipment (eg. scales), or
- with the drug packaged.

The police only have to prove that you were in possession. It is up to you to prove that you did not intend to traffic in it. Eg: You attend a dance with 10 grams of hash on you. Each is separately wrapped. The police search you and charge you with possession with intent. You will almost definitely be convicted because of:

- the amount
- the way it was packaged, and
- where you were found.

3. Trafficking

It is illegal to traffic in a narcotic OR in any substance held out to be a narcotic.

Under the Narcotic Control Act trafficking means the making, giving, lending, selling and transporting or delivering of any narcotic. Even if you only offer to do one of the above, it may be considered trafficking.

Some examples:

You light up a joint and pass it around—giving is trafficking.

A dealer gives you some grass to bring to your friend—delivering is trafficking.

Once the Crown has proved that you held a substance out to be a narcotic, they may convict even if the substance is not illegal at all.

If you pass salt tablets off as acid you could be convicted of trafficking in a restricted drug. Restricted drugs are drugs which have no medical use such as acid or mescaline.

If you sell salt tablets as speed you could be convicted of trafficking in a controlled drug. The term controlled refers to stimulants such as speed and depressants which are legally available only on prescription from a doctor.

Trafficking and possession for the purpose of trafficking are indictable offences. The penalty is a prison term which can be as long as life. There is a 1974 Ontario decision which states that unless there are exceptional or highly unusual circumstances, a prison sentence ought to be imposed for possession for trafficking.

4. Importing and Exporting

It is illegal to import into Canada or export from Canada any narcotic. This is an indictable offence—any person who violates it is liable to imprisonment for life. The minimum penalty is not less than seven years.

Learn to fly

Again this year, the Federation of Students of the University of Waterloo is sponsoring University Flying Training. All full-time students, faculty, and staff of U of W, WLU, U of Guelph, and Conestoga College are welcome to take advantage of this non-profit service.

UFT owns three aircraft based at Waterloo-Wellington Airport. Rates are cheaper than a regular commercial flying school can offer (about a $4 per hour difference now). Ground School is offered 3 times a year and starts about the third week into each term for 10 weeks.

An introductory night is being held on Wednesday, September 20, at 7:00 p.m. in room 3007 of the Math and Computer building at U of W. Costs will be discussed at that time and they hope to have some aviation films to show as well. Introductory flights can also be arranged for those who have never flown before but are interested.

Further information can be obtained by calling Michael Ruwald at 885-1211 ext. 2812, or at the introductory night.

Is The Who To Be Found Today

by Kurt Ditner

Without Keith Moon or better known as "Moon the Loon", will the rock band The Who continue to exist? The other members of the group, Roger Daltrey (lead vocals), Peter Townshed (guitar) and John Entwistle (bass), have no comment to make at present about the future of the band. If they do break up, it will surely be a great loss for all rock fans in general. We would not like to see such a great group like The Who to just dissolve into the pages of Rock History forever.

Going back over a little background history of The Who, anyone can see the landmarks that this group has left for all time to hear. Back in 1963, the original members of The Detours were Townshed and Entwistle; later joined with Keith Moon to form the rock group High Numbers. This group followed the pub circuit in England with much popularity. A little later, they were to change their name to the now famous name The Who.

By 1965 The Who broke through the ice in Britain with "My Generation" reaching No. 2. But in North America, the band did not get any notice, for the music listeners were still following the Herman's Hermits. The American Market was not to be cracked till the late 1967.

Mid-1968, an established name was formed for the group both in the concert field and music field. Combined with a reputation for the mass destruction of the set-equipment at the end of each concert, Keith Moon had a tendency to go beyond the concert scene into the restaurant and hotel rooms, for his further excitement.

This group has experienced, like all groups in the entertainment field, having their ups and downs with popularity. It was once stated that, "The

Who has reached their peak of talent with the production of the rock concert the Tommy, in 1969". Through the troubled times of the 70's, this group has had a very strong following combined with very good record album sales. At the beginning of this decade, the album "Live at Leeds" was released. This album would have to remain at the top ten in my book of ratings. Followed by "Who Next", in 1971, which included prime cuts "Won't Be Fooled Again" and "The Man Behind Blue Eyes". Does this ring any bells for old times sake?

Through the early 70's the group released a few solo albums of great interest, Townshed "Who Came First"; "Quadrophenia"; a personality representation of each member; and "The Two Sides of the Moon" (1975) by Keith Moon. Between the decade, The Who released "Odds and Sods" an album that was to tie up all loose ends; "Meaty, Beaty, Big and Bouncy" which was a collection of their greatest hits. They return back on the road for another tour in 1975, to promote their newer album release at that time of "The Who By Numbers" which in return turned a good dollar for the band as a whole.

In my opinion, this group has never had to lay back and released an album they could not be proud of. The dozen or so that they have released have been noted very well. In contrast with other super-name groups they do not try to sell their newer released albums with the achievement of past conquests. The Who rode in on the wave of the English rock explosion of the 1960's but they are not just another band in a changing world, they are a leader in the music culture of today and of the future. The Who have kept a strong sense of direction through time and with their new release of "Who Are You" and they will be going to the top of the charts, once again. Already their new album has quickly reached the top 20th on the Billboard. One word of advice, take a listen to their new album.

Kampus Kitchen by Pat Earl

Well, here we are again, back to the old grind. Even Kampus Kitchen survived the summer and has been picked up by the Cord for another year. I hope I can be of some assistance to you who fumble your way around the kitchen. By the same token, for those of you who know their way around the kitchen better than I do maybe I can give you some shortcuts or household hints to help you and maybe you could "feed" me some information about what you do that makes everyone want to eat at your place. In any case, I'll try to make this as painless as possible. Each week I will include a "metric munchie" for those of you who have the metric utensils. I don't intend to go totally metric because it would be too much to assume that you're all going to run out and buy the proper tools to follow this column (also too good to be true). So without further ado, here it is.....

Shortcuts
Since time is of the essence now that you're back at school I have listed a few things that may save you a few headaches.

1. Whenever you are using a casserole dish (that's the funny shaped one whose lid is always lost) make sure you oil both the lid and the bowl before putting in your food and you won't have to soak it to get it clean.
2. Use your scissors for cutting up food (like green onions, beans, bacon, whatever they'll cut through). It's quicker, and you don't have to sharpen them as often as the knife.
3. When you want to coat anything with flour or crumbs, drop the coating mix into a brown (or any colour) paper bag and toss in the thing to be coated and presto...no mess to clean up, a real time saver. Just chuck the bag into the garbage.
4. If some recipe calls for sour milk or sour cream, both milk and cream can easily be soured by adding one tablespoon of vinegar to one cup of either.

5. When you use your cast iron frypan and everything is going to stick to the bottom, before turning off the burner, pour a little water into the pan and let it boil there for a few minutes then the egg lifter will lightly scrape off all the stuck on

CAUTION: If you do this to a seasoned frypan however, you will have to re-season it.

Metric Munchie
1816g spareribs
426 ml. tomato sauce
199 ml. onion salad dressing mix
59 ml. vinegar
59 ml. light molasses
30 ml. salad oil
5 ml. dry mustard
¼ liter water

IN SHALLOW ROASTING PAN, place spareribs, meaty side up. Boil remaining ingredients, stirring constantly, approximately 3 minutes. Spread sauce evenly over meat and let it stand. Preheat oven at 163°C. Roast for 1½ to 2 hours, basting when necessary. (When the meat looks a little dry it's time to baste, or you can baste everytime you pass the oven, whatever.)

Meatball Casserole
1 lb. ground beef (hamburger)
½ cup soft bread crumbs
1 egg
1 tsp salt
2 tbsps Margarine
2 cups cooked rice (Minute)
½ lb. processed cheese cubed
¾ cup chopped green pepper
¼ cup chopped onion

Method
Combine meat, bread crumbs, egg and salt, mix lightly. Shape into medium-size meatballs (round them in the palms of both hands) Brown in margarine in frypan. Combine meatballs (browned) and remaining ingredients in a shallow 8 cup baking dish. Cover and bake at 350°F, 30 to 35 minutes. Serves 4-6. Freeze the leftovers in tin foil and heat up in the oven at 350°F until warm at another meal.

Variation Replace meatballs with 1 8 oz. pkg. frankfurters, cooked, sliced, omit browning. This variation will be a real timesaver for you. P.S. When chopping onions and you happen to have a blender, quarter the onions, half fill the blender, just cover with water and chop. Then drain off the water and you have it...You can also save the onions juice if you like for soup or to stew swiss steak in.

When you freeze leftovers, try to freeze them in portions you will eat and in case you forget to take something out of the freezer this won't take so long to thaw out.

redouble Redouble by Jeff Blakely

No Trump bidding is the bane of most bridge players. It is not understood and frequently misused. No Trump bidding will be the subject of this column for the next few weeks.

An opening bid of One No Trump says, "Partner, I have 16-18 HCP, no five card major suits, no singletons or voids, and three or four suits stopped." By opening one No Trump you are telling your partner almost all there is to know about your hand and you are turning over the decision for what the final contract is to be to your partner. Your partner is going to bid on the description that you have given and it makes no sense to deceive him by not having the hand that you have described. After opening one No Trump the opener will not bid again unless requested to by his partner. Bids of 2D, 2H, 2S, and 3C are close out bids and are to be passed by the opener. They describe very weak hands with five or six cards in the suit bid.

If South had just passed one No Trump it probably would have gone down three. The very weak suit preference bid by South can be made with safety and with the knowledge that North will not raise. Against any lead by West the contract will make two, no more no less.

The Naked Nun by Mary Shaver

by Frances Wye

You may remember the headlines which hit the Toronto newspapers in the spring of 1976 regarding Mary Shaver's life. The Toronto Sun titled it's expose 'Erotic art cost ex-nun teaching job'.

Now, for your reading pleasure, a first-hand account of her life is available. In her autobiography, Mary Shaver leads us to this crisis in her life. Her life unfolds. Early childhood held the terror of first communion juxtaposed with her attachment to the Church and her idolization of the Sisters at her school. This idolization converts to obsession. As she makes the decision to devote her life to a religious calling in her early teens, she quells the recently discovered feelings of developing womanhood. She tells of her entry into the convent in her middle teens. The events and emotions experienced during this period are touching at times; shocking at others. As she is gradually stripped of her identity, Mary begins to realize doubts in regard to her chosen profession. Unable to express herself through her art or music, she feels trapped by the convent.

After ten years in the convent, Mary re-enters the outside world and is re-born as a woman.

Although twenty-six years old chronologically, she has the innocence of a sixteen-year old—the age when she entered the convent. We move with her through her re-discovery of herself.

The style is simple which serves to make it all the more touching. The personal level of the narrative intensifies this.

Read it. You'll gain insight into the religious world, into the total devotion a person is capable of giving, and into the frustrations of the established norms of our society.

Best Movie Bets

Heaven Can Wait (Fairview)

One of the best movies to hit this area in a long time. The entire cast is great, with memorable performances by both Warren Beatty and Dyan Cannon. A "must see" movie.

Foul Play (Lyric)

Goldie Hawn is delightful in this tailor-made role. Chevy Chase is O.K. but his klutz routine is superb. Good, light entertainment—the perfect escapism movie.

Revenge of the Pink Panther (Waterloo)

If you've never seen a Pink Panther movie, this is your last chance since this is the last movie in the long and successful Pink Panther series. Peter Sellers as Clouseau is at his prime and the gags are as funny as ever. It won't be here much longer, so see it now!

Helix: Thursday night

For the opening of the Turret, the school has lined up a local Kitchener-Waterloo based raunch and roll group called Helix. This band has a reputation for involving the audience on the dance floor for a good time. Helix is a five-member band that consists of vocalist Brian Vollmer, guitarists/vocalists Brent Doerner and Hackman, bassist Keith Zurbrigg, percussionist Brian Doerner. They are managed by William Seip and booked exclusively by Waterloo-based Dram Agency.

In the summer of 1975, Helix was founded after the battle of the bands contest at the Central Ontario Exhibition at the Kitchener Memorial Auditorium. Since then, the band has been playing the southern and northern Ontario bar circuit with great success. This group has been especially noted for their on-stage and lighting show.

Don't wait any longer to see 'Heaven Can Wait'

"Heaven Can Wait" is a funny, light-as-a-feather movie that is easy on the mind and a tonic for the soul. One person wrote of the movie that "in a film season that has been a desert of parched mediocrity, "Heaven Can Wait" appears like an oasis to bring a refreshing spirit back to American film." I wouldn't go quite that far, but I do agree that it is one of the best movies of the year—and miracle of miracles, the critics think so too.

"Heaven Can Wait" is Warren Beatty's film all the way: he co-wrote the script, directed and produced the film. He is also the star of the film, looking every inch the matinee idol with a smile that is only seen in toothpaste ads. The masters' thumbprint is everywhere but unlike a lot of one-man efforts, Beatty pulls it off and does not end up with egg all over his face.

Beatty portrays Joe Pendleton, a football player who is about to realize his dream—quarterbacking his team in the Super Bowl. He has a serious accident and one of the messengers in heaven snatches him from life, thinking he will die in the crash. But he isn't supposed to die for another 40 years, so he and another messenger start shopping around for a new body for him to inhabit. Sound improbable? Perhaps—but it makes for a very funny movie.

After much searching, he decides on the body of one Leo Farnsworth, a rich and ruthless industrialist. Since Pendleton knows nothing at all about the business world, it makes for some hilarious scenes. Leo Farnsworth was the target of a murder plot hatched by his wife and private secretary who want to run off together. The look on their faces when Farnsworth turns out to be alive is priceless. Dyan Cannon is superb as Farnsworth's murderous and scheming wife—it's her best part in years and she plays it for all it's worth.

Julie Christie plays the poor girl from the small town with the big blue eyes who wants to stop Farnsworth's destruction of her town. She is the romantic love interest in the film and is Beatty's perfect partner (as she was in Shampoo and McCabe and Mrs. Miller). You can probably guess how that turns out.

I can't tell you anymore about the film or I'll give it away completely. Suffice it to say that the ending is a pleasant surprise and you'll leave the theatre feeling sky high. School got you down already? Or do you just need a good laugh? See Heaven Can Wait—it's terrific medicine for the blues!

HELP WANTED

This year, as usual, the Cord needs volunteers. We need writers, photographers, typists, help with layout, and somebody to clean the ashtrays.

The pay is lousy (read nonexistent). The pension plan and dental plan are just as good. But we offer a chance to work with some really good people, have some fun, and give you something to put down on a resume when it's time to look for a job.

The cord is your paper. (If you don't believe it, look at your fee statement). It can only be good with your help. If you are interested in doing a little writing, or anything else, give us a call at 884-2990 or come up to the office on the second floor of the Student Union Building.

Hawks massacre wounded Warriors 39-10

Fullback Jim Reid receives the pitch from Protopapas and motors 67 yards downfield for a long gain.

pic by Switalski

Saturday, September 9th, marked the beginning of the 1978 football season and what a start!! Our very own Golden Hawks hosted the Waterloo Warriors at our home field: Seagram's Stadium, located directly behind our library. This game usually generates a lot of excitement since we are bitter rivals in athletics.

On a day made perfectly for football, the Hawks put on a superb display of defensive and offensive football. Both squads were in total charge for almost all the sixty minutes. The offense, guided by Les Protopapas, showed how versatile they will be this year. The game was marked by our long marches, highlighted by the runs of Reid and Colwell. Statistically the offense rushed for 392 yards and passed for 142 yards for an incredible total of 534 yards. The other side of the coin saw our wrecking crew defence held the Warriors to 96 total yards. Head splitting hits by Jack Davis, Larry Rygus, Pete Hepburn and Jim O'Keefe, highlighted the game. Numerous Warriors left the field wondering what day it was and why did the trainer have 12 fingers on his left hand.

Early season worries were that loss of eleven starters from last years squad, especially the defensive line, would seriously hurt our chances. Although the Warriors proved to be no opposition, our Wrecking Crew defense was superb. This is a credit for coach Knight and staff who have developed as fine a football system as there is. The Golden Hawks are aiming for a seventh straight appearance in the divisional final. Not bad for a school of just over 3,000.

The game started with very spirited warm-ups by both squads. Lots of shouting, groaning, and grunting, (nothing better to get the adrenalin pumping.) Waterloo physically bigger than last year looked like they would be better than adequate opposition, however they fell short of my expectations. On the first set of downs, Laurier's defense forced a fumble but the Warriors managed to hold on. Laurier's first offensive display was short lived and the third down play shocked all that were viewing the match. A low snap forced kicker, Jerry Gulyes, to hurry a punt that trickled off his foot into the arms of a very determined deep back John Chrobok. With a few key blocks and a burst of speed, Chrobok entered the end zone to draw the first blood. Chrobok should have kept on running with the ball because it was the only time any black uniform was going to cross the goal line this day.

The Laurier defense came up big against the Warriors and then Protopapas started the ball rolling for the Hawks. The first long drive of the day was highlighted by the brilliant running of Phil Colwell and Jim Reid, and the pass receiving of Dan Kirby. The drive culminated with Mr. Dependable, Jim Reid, blasting through the Warriors line for the TD. Warriors then came out with their explosive offensive formula; two downs and kick. My stats show that the Waterloo kicker punted 16 times, this shows us how great our defence was.

Another Hawk charge from our own 10 yard line, included a long quarterback keeper, a bomb to sophomore Dom Vetro and another T.D. by who else, Jim Reid. On the next defensive series Jack the Hammer Davis made one of the best plays of the day, chasing the scrambling Warriors QB towards the sidelines. Jack threw a Muhammad Ali punch to the poor lads head and rode him to the ground like he was roping a wild steer.

Laurier recovered the ball but fumbled on their own 46. The defense again shut down the Warriors and a field goal attempt went wide with Bob Stacey saving us from allowing a single by smartly manoeuvring the ball out of the end zone. Jim Reid then put Laurier far out of trouble with an outstanding run of 67 yards. Protopapas then found Vetro for a long T.D. pass and run. The Defense returned long enough to quell a Waterloo drive. Offense come is again making things easy for themselves. Protopapas hands off to Phil Colwell who then weaved and dodged his way for seventy yards eventually finding the end zone. This brilliant piece of running was the offensive highlight of the game.

The biggest test for the defence came when surehanded (usually) Bob Stacey had on slip away on his own 27. This was one of five fumbles by our side and something that must be worked on for future games. Onto the field comes the wrecking crew to try and hold the fort. Bone crunching tackles by Hepburn, Davis and Payne led Waterloo to a 3rd down situation. Trying for a pass completion Larry Rygus came through to pound the ball and the Warrior receiver into the dirt. The last series of the half saw Protopapas throwing a long pass to tight end Wes Wolf, who fought off 3 defenders and showed great concentration in making the completion for 32 yards. A 45 yard field goal attempt by Gulyes fell just short.

The half ends with the Hawks getting a standing ovation from our devoted fans and the Warriors getting only support from their athletic supporters. It can be said, the game was really over at the half and the rest was only a formality. The second half saw very little offense, Laurier fumbled twice and were intercepted twice in the Second half. Jerry Gulyes, showing his poise and experience, punched two field goals (33 and 30 yds.) and a 64 yard single. Jerry averaged 41 yards while ex Laurier kicker Mike averaged 40 yards. The defense once again was outstanding with Hepburn, O'Keefe, Sprague, Scott, Payne, Davis and Rygus all making key tackles.

Coach Knight took the opportunity to substitute freely. Offensively the second half wasn't up to par but with the dynamic duo of Colwell and Reid complemented by Burke and veteran Gerusiak they will do wonders this season. Also deserving a lot of fame and fortune are veterans of combat, capable of moving everything out of their way, the offensive line Bellamy, Hale, Carefoote, Saville and Yurincich. The receiving corp. of Kirby, Vetro, Wolf, and Kline are dependable and at the helm Protopapas, looks right at home.

The defensive looked brilliant against Waterloo forcing Karpow to kick 16 times. Hepburn, Davis, Troop, Martyniuk, Graffi and Ouarrell are all starting for the first time although Davis and Martyniuk saw plenty of action last year.

Scott, Stacey, Rygus, O'Keefe, de Barrios and Captain Payne are all experienced and will have to play superbly to win their division. Another defensive player Mark Forsyth is nursing a fractured arm but should return in a few weeks eager for action. To win their league a team effort of about 200% by everyone is needed. Good Luck, Hawks, We're behind you!

GOLDEN WORDS

Well, here we are back for another year of fun and games (unfortunately, a lot of work, too). The summer appeared to rocket past in no time. It seems like yesterday we were sitting in the A.C. spilling our brains into exam booklets and then heading our separate ways for the summer.

That is in the past. Now it is a new season full of many victories and darkened by failure and defeat. Hopefully, the victories outnumber the defeats but this cannot always be. This job is new to me. Also, I feel a certain challenge in trying to cover the WLU sport scene—male and female. To make my job a success, I need your help and involvement. Come up and see me or drop a line in my mailbox in the Cord office, telling me what you would like to do.

Wilfrid Laurier University is well known for its athletics and last year accomplished a remarkable feat. The Golden Hawks were the only team, in Canada, ranking in the National Top Ten for football, hockey and basketball. Hawks were 8th in the national rankings. In my first year at Laurier, I realised it will be difficult to duplicate this record because all teams have lost key members.

Naturally with three teams ranked in the Top 10, several players had key roles and were recognized at the conclusion of the 77—78 season. These names are some you can watch for as many have returned for another year.

- Football—Jim Reid

Football Rookie of the Year—Phil Colwell

Lineman of the Year—John Miller

Hockey MVP—Al MacSorley

Basketball MVP—Don Whaley,
- Lorne Killion

Basketball Rookie—Greg Paoline

Volleyball MVP—Randy Koerber

Women's Basketball MVP—Debbie Bauer

Women's Basketball Rookie—Karen Danch

Women's Volleyball MVP—Sharon Patterson

Last year we were well represented in athletics and since my arrival this year, conversation with our coaches has told me that they are optimistic about the 78—79 season. It looks like we are in for a great year. To keep up our winning tradition we need your help, either as a player or a fan. Come on out and support your teams. It doesn't even cost you a cent. Present your I.D. card at any Laurier game (except playoffs) and you get in free.

Friday, September 15, is your big chance. Our Golden Hawks host the powerful University of Toronto Blues at Seagram Stadium. There is a Pregame Blitz, Pep Rally and a Hawk walk. Watch for posters around campus for times and places. See you there!

So here we go, off and running on a new course. Fresh young talent mixed with very capable and dependable veterans, should show us a lot of exciting moments over the next eight months. I hope, as many do, that we will see a couple of national titles this year to top our year off. Whatever happens you can bet that the athletics of our school will be in there until the final whistle has gone. We have a tradition to uphold, so let's get busy!

Athletics and Facilities

by Gerry Huddleston

Tired of school already? Are pressures building up? Eating all those carbo's at the dining hall or the Torque room? Well have I got a place for you! In the corner of the campus directly behind Clara Conrad Hall is our very own Athletic Complex. This building has many things for your personal use. These days all we hear about is Participation and I feel that is good. Being such a small school is a bonus for us as it means a better chance to use the facilities. Do your part for Participation and come out and join us!

The facilities include four single squash courts fully air conditioned, three gymnasiums with tartan synthetic flooring, one weight room with modern equipment, one combatives area fully padded, two saunas and a fifty meter swimming pool. The school offers you a number of intercollegiate and intramural programs in which everyone is welcome to participate. With all the new Frosh this year we should have a great intramural system coordinated by Gary Jeffries at the A.C. So come out—don't hibernate—PARTICIPATE.

Intramurals 78-79

by Gerry Huddleston

All students, (full-time) faculty and staff who have paid their athletic fee are invited to start gathering up teams right now for the bigger and better 78-79 season. Even if you don't want to play, come out and officiate or convene. Convenors can earn up to $100. for one sport. Officials are also paid so it is worth your time to be a part of our program. Anyone wanting to participate see the Director of Intramurals, Coach Gary Jeffries, in the Athletic Office. Gary offers a varied program which includes competitive and Tournament, Recreational and Social, Instructional and Club activities.

All-Canadian running back Jim Reid now has thirty career T.D.'s. The third year player needs only three more to tie ex-Ottawa Gee Gee great Neil Lumsden (now with Hamilton Ticats) who holds the Canadian all time record of 33.

Mike Sitke was benched in U of T's first football game. The Canadian Inter-University Athletic Union has ruled him ineligible because he has already used up his five years of eligibility. The ruling is being questioned but rather than forfeit their first game, Sitke was benched.

imports linebacker Bob House (U. of Minnesota) and running back Nevil Edwards (Kent State). A game against U of T in exhibition play saw Western leading 19-0 at the half and holding for a 22-14 victory.

Rumours circulating around the media are that recently axed head coach Leo Cahill is being considered for the head coaching job of the Waterloo Warriors after the trouncing of 39-10 inflicted by our Hawks. If Cahill goes to the Warriors Terry Metcalf says he will go with him.
