Clones to lecture on WLU campus

(NOTE: It has recently come to light that an abscure Australian biologist and amateur graverobber developed a method some thirty years ago that enabled him to clone figures from the past by using parts of their skeletal remains. After spending six years touring the world, he had secretly accumulated portions of the anatomies of 38 deceased world-famous figures. WLU learned of this obscure biologist's work in late July and arranged, for the modest sum of 1.5 million dollars, to have several of his re-created beings speak on campus this year. The following represents a selection of the speakers who will be appearing at WLU starting next term.)

The Anthropology Department will be hosting Charles Darwin for an entire week in February. The honoured guest will be taken on a tour of the Kitchener-Waterloo area and will partake in several cultural events. Included in his agenda are visits to discos, evenings at various bars and hotels, and attendance at a special screening of a Burt Reynolds movie, Jane Fonda's classic "Barbarella", and Russ Meyer's "Vixen." The illustrious Mr. Darwin will then present a lecture, open to the public, entitled, "Is There Such A Thing as Evolution, and if so. is it a Good Idea " A reception will be held later, with free Gatorade and Dill Pickle Chips for all

The Political Science Department is pleased to present Sir John A. MacDonald. Sir John will be speaking on "Taxation and Revenue Sharing Between the Federal and Provincial Governments, With Particular Emphasis on the Horrendous Taxes Levied on Liquor, Gin in Particular.'

The Astronomy Department will be hosting a very special surprise guest. The speaker, who has requested anonymity, will speak on the topic "The Big Bang Theory-Close, But No Cigar." Having a guest of this calibre will prove to be the scoup of the century, and we wish we could tell you His name.

The English Department will present a debate between a professor from the department and William (Bill) Shakespeare. Mr. Shakespeare will contend that modern-day 'scholars' have misinterpreted some of his best comedies, Macbeth and Julius Caesar in particular. professor will attempt The to respond by explaining to Shakespeare that what he may have intended to write certainly isn't what he actually wrote.

The Physics Department will present Sir Isaac Newton. Sir Isaac will talk about research he has been doing recently into the field of gravity. His topic is ten-tatively entitled, "I May Have Been Wrong-Maybe The Earth DOES Suck.

The History Department will present a very special guest. Bucephalus will try to describe exactly what it was like to serve under Alexander the Great.

The Faculty of Social Work will present Adolf Hitler. Mr. Hitler will discuss his development of a social welfare plan for minority groups and slum clearance in Warsaw. The discussion should be entertaining, as it will be in a 'roast' format. Mr. Hitler will be surprised to find out that he is the 'roastee.'

The Religion and Culture Department will play host to Moses. Moses will attempt to justify his leadership of the Jewish people, with particular reference to the episode in which he led them around for forty years and made them settle on the only patch of desert that didn't have any oil.

John Maynard Keynes will be the guest of the Economics Department. His topic will be, "It Was All A Joke, As You Are Now Learning." Special guest Jean Chretien will appear to tell Keynes about another joke.

A one-of-a-kind (literally) guest will speak to the Geography club. The nameless guest will explore the topic of Geographic Economics In An Urban Setting In Gondwonaland.

The Business Department is pleased to anounce that Pharoah Ramses III will address all interested students and faculty in late February. The Pharoah's topic will be: "Pyramid Sales".

Maggie offers to teach at WLU

In a recent letter to WLU, the Trudeau, Margaret estranged wife of Canada's prime minister, offered to teach and several business photography courses in the 1979-1980 academic year.

"I have always wanted to be a university professor, even if I don't have a B.A.," confided Ms. Trudeau to the Bored when we phoned her during one of her rare visits to Ottawa. "All of my other jobs, such as a photojournalist, actress, author and politician are so dull compared to the glamorous career of the university professor. Besides, just last week at a New York Disco, my best friend, Princess Jasmin, told me that I have the brains to teach as well as any PHD can. And that's the truth-despite what the media says about me-I'm really an intellectual.'

When asked why most Canadians are unaware of this why she chose photography and side of her, she explained, "A prophet is always hated in her home town"

Ms. Trudeau explained that she chose Laurier as the place to display her academic gifts when she heard that this campus won second prize for the 11 minute film, "I Chose Laurier" at a Film recent fnternational Festival in New York. Although she did not attend the film festival (she was unsuccessfully trying to get a job interview with Jackie O's publishing firm at the time), she says she knows it must be a great film because (quoting her), "All Canadian films are award winners."

"That is why I'm SO PROUD be a Canadian," to she emphatically added.

The former Margaret Sinclair refused to explain why she spends so much time outside of Canada.

The ex-flower child did explain business as her Laurier subjects. "It's 'cuz I'm SO GOOD at them," she revealed. "Why else do you think I've been on photo assignments to Paris? As for business, well, I've gotta be gifted 'cuz I've already made $500,000 from my memoirs-and I haven't even finished them yet!"

Marg Trudeau was referring to the autobiography she's currently writing in which she gives an intimate picture of her 30 years of existence.

I asked our potential prof if she had any intellectual gems which she wanted to impart to the

it is: the night is always darkest just before the dawn. Isn't that a great piece of knowledge?

The Laurier administration is currently undecided about accepting Marg Trudeau's job offer.

WLU is joining in the lottery craze increase move revenues, the Administration vesterday announced a new lottery open to all students and faculty, but not to the maintenance crews.

The tickets, which will sell for $1.00 in the Bookstore, entitle the holder to share in the pot at the end of each weekly draw. Purchasers pick their own numbers, from 50 to 150. The numbers correspond with the number of people who fall on the way out the portables. For example, if and your ticket is for 53, you split half the money collected with all those other people who picked 53. You also have the option, for another 50 cents, of playing the jackpot draw.

The jackpot draw is based on the accumulation of points. Points are awarded weekly on the following basis: notes ruined in the snow to the extent that they require complete re-copying will be counted as 25 points. Multiple fractures are worth 50 points. Concussions are worth 75 points.

worth 100 points. The total points chalked up in any one week will be posted, and the the ticket holders who come closest will share in the jackpot.

Proceeds from the lottery will be used by the university to increase the purchases of new books for the Library. Last year, only sixteen new volumes were purchased. It is hoped that between 175 and 200 new additions can be made this year.

So get out and buy those tickets! With Sir Wilfrid Lot-

Audio visual plans major movie

by Steve Fischer Still inflated from the success of receiving a silver medal for the promotional film "I chose Laurier" at the International Film and TV Festival a few weeks ago, WLU Audio Visual department was signed on to produce and direct a remake of the classic movie "Gone with the Wind", university sources disclosed today.

Following negotiations with Hollywood several companies, Willy Nassau and the A-V department have agreed to direct, produce, shoot and edit the much-awaited and anticipated remake of the classic 1939 movie. It is rumoured that the budget for the film will be in the tens of millions-substantially more than it cost to make "I chose Laurier"

Nassau plans to begin casting and set construction in the near future. He intends to use the Theatre Auditorium for most of the interior sets and the football field behind Willison Hall for the outdoor scenes (such as the famous battle scene). He stated film that "I am very excited about the project and am hopeful that many WLU students and staff will get involved with it-to help build the sets, do camera work and audition for parts.

Unfortunately for all those on campus who had visions of becoming the next Clark Gable or Vivian Leigh, Nassau stated that he was intent on getting John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John for the two lead roles.

The completion date is set for the first of December 1981, in time for the usual big Christmas audiences.

All of the WLU A-V staff have agreed to only work on the project during lunch and after hours so as not to interfere with the normal functioning of the department.

These are the two applicants for the Political Science Associate Professor-PIC BY SWITALSKI ship, Barbara Wuffleston and Heidi Womber

A PHD. isn't quite what it used to be. Even Doctors have to fight for jobs. Above are two applicants for an Associate Professorship in the Political Science Department, Barbra Wufflestonberg and Heidi Womber. Competition for the opening was fierce, so creativity in presentation was the keyword. Dr. Wufflestonberg spoke at length on structural functionalism in regional government and presented two interesting points. Dr. Womber presented her original research dealing with kick-backs in the public sector, and showed how her back has been kicked as proof.

A decision on which candidate has been accepted will be made public shortly, although it is rumoured that both candidates may be requested to repeat their presentations before the selection committeeon camera.

WLU to Recall Faulty Degrees

In a special press release last Tuesday, the WLU administration announced that it is recalling 8,000 faulty B.A.'s which were given out to graduates in the past several years in order to correct defects in the school's faulty grading system.

The administration said that at least sixty complaints have been reported, in which graduates have not been able to find jobs upon graduation.One of these complaints involves a 1977 graduate (name withheld by request) who was refused a mediocre job as a window washer because he was "overqualified"; this student, who wants to remain anonymous, graduated from an honours English program with a G.P.A. of 12 after doing 6000 hours of homework. The administration concludes that such overqualification can only result from a slack grading system.

It warned owners of the affected degrees not to seek jobs or go on welfare until repairs can be made.

In the interim, the WLU Senate has sent out a strong warning to all faculty members that they must "crack down" and "double the load of assignments for all courses even if their students complain that they're already overworked."

The administration has decided that those graduates with faulty B.A.'s can return to WLU for repairs "free of charge", which means that they can take their old courses all over again without worrying about going into debt. However they must pay for their own textbooks and residence costs. Because of this recall, class sizes and the Turret population will double next year, therefore be sure you get to your classes and pub night early next year so that you'll be able to find a seat.

Life at Laurier

by Eternal Student

When there's no jobs out there in the working world, many people may wish to remain in school, I for one. In fifty years I'll probably still be wandering up and down Laurier's halls in pursuit of knowledge.

I can imagine having to leave classes ten minutes early in order to make it to the next class on time, aided with a cane. I'd be answering questions in class that were posed an hour earlier. (That old arm takes a long time to reach up into the air.) I'd wonder what the professor looked like, my eyes would be failing. I'd have taken almost every course ever offered at WLU, meaning I would have to graduate soon . . . and then what, unemployment? One thing, by then I would have a steady income, my old age pension.

Social life would involve saying 'hello' to people in the university—iron poor blood, you know. Those Thursday night pubs would be too much excitement.

I would be a well of information. Many people would come to me for advice since I would be 'old and wise'. I may not hear their problems without my hearing aid, though.

All in all though, I would have kept busy for seventy odd years and I could laugh at those who graduated fifty years ago, excited and ready to challenge the business world ... See, they would be living on welfare and I would be receiving a grant from the government to continue as a senior. Ah! That would be the life. See you then. Iu a move designed to further increase WLU's Budgetary Surplus, it was announced today that starting in January the Torque Room and The Dining Hall will amend their menus to restrict selection.

Henceforth, sandwiches will be made with only one slice of bread. Crusts will be used. The use of margarine will be limited to 1/8 inch layer instead of the usual 1/4 inch layer.

Coffee filters will be changed once monthly instead of once weekly.

Selection of soups will be limited to cream of tomato, made with water, and gruel, made with whatever didn't sell yesterday.

Friday specials will still include fish, but the species used will be changed. The Biology department has come up with a new breed that lives in the University's plumbing system that is rumoured to be tasty and cheap, even though the colour is somewhat unappetizing.

Free pickles will be a thing of the past. Strong lobbying by the right-to-life people has resulted in a new policy whereby only fullgrown cucumbers will be used by Food Services, thus ending the inhumane slaughter of baby, cucumbers and other foodstuffs whose lives were aborted. Yes, this means no more egg salad sandwiches either.

Doughnuts, which have been supplied by independent bakeries, will be a thing of the past. Small slices of Cuban sugar cane will be substituted.

Fresh fruit, particularly that which is imported, will be rationed. Only children under 14 and expectant mothers will qualify.

Due to the high price of beef, meat served in the Torque Room and Dining Hall will be limited to whatever security could catch on a given day. Pigeons and stray cats are expected to be the usual fare.

It is hoped that these changes will not in any way detract from Food Services policy of offering nutritious food at reasonable cost.

Radio Laurier moves to CN Tower

by Steve Fischer

Due to phenomenal regionwide popularity and demand for their programs in nearby areas, Radio Laurier has decided to move its operations to the CN Tower in Toronto, a station spokesman disclosed today. From there, the station's programs will be broadcasted across the nation and into the northeastern states.

The Station's spokesman stated that he -was "a little worried" about the transition from a campus station with a few speakers dotted around the cafeteria and residences and the spot 104.7(FM) on the Grand River Cable System, to an international, big-time operation with many millions as an audience. He doesn't see himself changing the program content or replacing any of the disc jockeys since, as he stated, "what works for WLU will work for Canada. He did state that he may carry slightly less campus news and play less "drug-oriented" music in anticipation of increasing nonuniversity listeners.

USU Activities ovember reflections

by Dancin' on the Table

As we sit by the fireside during our Xmas holidays, let us remember WLUSU for the past term, what was done, what was not done, and what will be done. First, let's start with the Board of Directors, the students' voice of representation, the students' input, the Big Men on Campus! They were very productive this year-only took four hours to do twenty minutes of business, which is way above average, even for intelligent people. Attendance has been average, except for several instances. Input was minimal, but how else to get your name recognized except for the seconding of motions? I attended one meeting this term, fully expecting it to be as harmonious as Seals and Crofts, only to find it to be as relevant as Sears and Roebuck are to the relation and shape of the sun (which, for you Bus. boys and girls, is minimal).

B.S.A. was very productive. Lots of good bands in the Turret, or is that Bans? Turnout was acceptable, but then again, I would not go to see a band that is so loud it clears my eardrums using without Q-tips. Orientation was fine, but then again what can you do with 1,000 naive 1st, 2nd, and 3rd year kids? Fourth year Business students are busy working and sorting out their brief cases, so they couldn't participate in orientation-I know what they are missing! Oktoberfest-if only I could remember! I heard it was good, or maybe just that I was good! Winter Carnival sounds like fun but it should be indoors. Rumour has it that snow will be put in the Turret for the semi-formal. This is not necessary as they have only to turn the exhaust fans on rewind and they would fill the place in a second. The Boar's Head is coming. As I understand it, the idea is to make a pig of yourself and get one of the waiters to drop your meal in your lap. The waitresses do it better (the meal in your lap, that is.)

The Commissioner University Affairs has the most offices, the biggest windows, the most respect, and the oldest people. They got me involved in this SOF thing that I think stands for Strip Off Funds. At least they get a lot of our gas money, even in a Volkswagen . . . They also have a library, but the books there, well, let's just say that I would rather read" Chaucer. Nobody ever sees these people as they are always conferencing.

Next, we come to that selfprofessed 'media' Radio Laurier, or rather, Radio Lousy. This is the thing that the Board invested $16,000 in and feels that there are no returns. What type of station broadcasts in FM mono? I'll tell you-a bad one. Well, I heard it through the grapevine that next year there will be a tower erected in Toronto called the WLU Tower. This will enable the station to come to life, by becoming the first AM stereo station in Canada. This year was just a trial period, to see if they could spend the money. Next year, you'll be able to get Radio Lousy in T.O., but not in Waterloo. An excellent decision in my mind, as no one here will miss it. With this tower, we will also be able to broadcast WLU Tele-College and have guided tours on WLZoo day. Think of the advertising!!

The other concern often voiced on the WLUSU Way (the corridor) is the area that the pubs are located in. This area, of course, being that of Student Publications. Here, they drink beer, write, drink beer, write, and get huge honourariums for doing it !!! I do enjoy the wall calendar they put out, as each year there are the sports schedules, pictures from decades gone by, and the like. It is nice to be reminiscing. Their attempt to try to copy Radio Lousy at being the only media in the school lies with the Bored Weakly. Now, I am for that business, but when you put it on paper, it is a fish of a different smell. As a matter of fact, the Bored does make very good fish rap (or should that be wrap?)

There really is not too much else to remember during the festive season, except that we at Wilfrid Lowlife had a pretty good term (sentence). Oh, if only my loan would come in!!

Have a sip of hot apple cider for me during the season, and roast a few chestnuts for me.

WLU Telecollege bumped

Telecollege, WLU's attempt to break into the big time TV business, is being cancelled due to low ratings.

It is rumoured that the Board of Governors of the University are trying to lure Freddie Silverman away from NBC to correct the situation. Silverman, while with ABC, brought that network up to the number one position in American television by offering the viewing public what they really wanted, not the high-brow stuff that was being offered at the time.

One of the stars of Telecollege, Ralph Blackmore, is in Hollywood this week doing a guest shot on Laverne and Shirley. His plans for the new year include parts on Love Boat, Happy Days, Face the Nation, and All-Star Wrestling.

MOTOR INN

Silverman told the Bored that if he accepts WLU's offer one of the first things he would do would be to find a suitable vehicle to utilize Blackmore's talents. He is thinking of a onehour docu-drama based on the life and loves of a small-town university professor, or a nature series to replace Mutual of Wild Kingdom, Omaha's Blackmore starring as a "Canadian Marlin Perkins."

Silverman also thinks that an excellent sit-com could be made out of Student Government at WLU. That lovely Jan Wray and the handsome heart-throb Dave Crapper would star as two upand-comers clawing their way to the top over the bodies of lesser mortals.

This is my last editorial of the year. If you're relieved, think how I feel. You think it's easy trying to be intelligent once a week? Ha! I am sitting here in the Turret, as is my wont, seeking inspiration from a little brown bottle. In wine is truth; in beer, gas.

This year has been really—well, interesting, I guess you could say. All kinds of things have happened. I just can't think of any right now.

You know, some weeks are so boring news-wise that we have considered making our own news. You know — get a photographer or two and a couple of writers to cover the fire we are going to set in Clara Conrad. Boy, talk about desperate!

Next year should be just as interesting. A big referendum is coming up— should we join the Ontario Federation of Students? Who cares? It'll cost us money, that's the point of thematter. Student elections—nobody cares about that, either, but the guys who'are running think it will look good on their resumes.

There are some really good stories around that I think should be covered, but the truth of the matter is that I'm scared. Did you know, for example, that most of the football team is queer? That the entire student government is corrupt? That half the faculty should be up on morals charges? That the seminary students are all dopers and celebrate black sabbath? That this University is owned by I.T. & T.? That your picture is taken twice at registration so that the RCMP has one on file? Boy. The things I could write if I wasn't so scared! Talk about a free press. I'm not afraid of regulation, but tribulation has me worried.

This job is thankless. Everybody bitches. If you don't give the bloody tiddly-wink tournament front page coverage, forty-seven wimps will come and tear out your lungs.

And then there's those people who write fantastic articles and throw them at us, almost demanding front page treatment! Hell, half of them couldn't write a coherent shopping list! What do you say to them? "Well thanks, but don't bother me, you illiterate gift to enlightenment.

God, this is thankless. If it wasn't for booze, I'd be a wreck. Or more of a wreck, anyway.

What training do 1 have for this sorry excuse for a position? Philosophy 100 and Can Lit. Big Deal. You have to be a 419 pound, nine foot twelve walking dictionary with a mind like an encyclopedia and the wit of a Francis Fox to do this job! Who needs it? For a paltry twelve dollar per annum honourarium, they want another Geoffrey Stevens, Alan Fotheringham, Tom Gould and God rolled into one!! What the hell do you expect? Tolstoy?

* Well stuff it! Who Needs it, you ungrateful wimps? Blow it out your elbow!! I've had it!!!

Thanks folks

As this is the last issue of the term, I would like to thank all those who have helped out so far with the production of the Cord.

You call yourself an editor? Look at the paper, "The Cord Weekly". What a stupid name for a newspaper. Why, it isn't even a bloody newspaper!! Hell, the content quality on a piece of used toilet paper is better than the crap you put out each week!!

And the staff!!! A bunch of assholes no doubt, except for the photo-manager—he's just plain crazy!!! All of you engage in stinking yellow journalism. Just out to get everyone, that's all you and the other sadists want to do!!! And you are all out to get me, too! But I won't let you! I'm to smart and dangerous. I'm ready for when you all try to jump. I've got myself wired with twenty pounds of gelignite!!! Just try to get me!! Just try!!! Ha Hah! I'll blow you all to Kingdom Come!! Ha Hah!! Come and get me!! I dare you!!!! Ha Ha Ha Ha!!!!

Cordially yours, a typical WLU student Editor's Note: You bought Export. I specifically said Fifty. Try again.

In praise of

I think your newspaper is the greatest thing at this university. I read it faithfully every Thursday, and re-read it again every day until the next issue comes out. I tell all my friends just how good it is and go around soliciting advertising for you so that you have more money for more pages.

You guys and girls do a fantastic job!

P.S. You were supposed to give me a case of Fifty if I wrote this. You sent me a case of Export by mistake. How can I exchange it for some REAL beer?

Third Year Business Student

Typists Deb Stalker, Brenda Armstrong, Carl Friesen, Cathy Orth, Diane Baltaz, and Carol Gosnek all deserve a big round of applause for their work. We really appreciate it! This week's article is dedicated to the diligence and effort of all those who participated in our past "WLU Day". Without everyone's consideration and co-operation, visiting high school  $\preccurlyeq$  students would not be able to experience university life as well as life at Laurier.

Approximately 800 students attended a successful day of O special presentations, lectures, campus and residence tours and a series of other special events. Thank you so much again! Reggie >

by Carl Friesen

What do you think of the Cord?

Joseph Goebbels

1st yr Journalism and Genetics I especially enjoyed the review of "The Boys From Brazil" a few weeks ago. Despite that I still hold firm to the idea that anyone who reads the papers should be included in the Final Solution.

Niccolo Machiavelli 3rd yr Political Science

The Cord follows the idea I put forward in my book on good government-it should have a reputation for honesty but be quite capable of being dishonest when expedient. The article on Ontario government last week was interesting, but I'm sure Breithaupt should have taken a much firmer stan-unemployment among High university grads and the inability for current students to find summer jobs to pay for their tuition are unimportant, the Ministry revealed. According to projections made by the Ministry, student populations within all ten provinces will record more dropouts than freshmen by 2,000; indeed, the trend has already started.

'An educational institution that decides not to tolerate negative growth and thus fires their professors on a large scale in order not to cut into public funds is irresponsible and ignorant of the social ramifications such firings create," the official quoted.

A similar scheme is underway in Russia and Cuba where students are provided free tuition in attainment of state degrees. To date, the press is studying this scheme since it's a well-known fact that the Ontario government is slow to hand out money to students, as the recent OSAP computer mixups reveal.

Degrees by mail

In a move designed to increase revenues, WLU today an-nounced that degrees will be offered by mail.

The new program, tentatively called "Buy A Degree" will be advertised extensively in magazines and newspapers across Canada. It works like this: General BA's, Honours BA's, MA's, Ph.D's and Diplomas will be sold for a fixed price. The price will vary with the degree offered. One new twist that is an integral part of the price will be that the degrees will be sold at a price in line with what they are actually worth in the job market.

For example, a General B.A. will sell for $1,500; an Honours B.A. will sell for $2,200; a BBA will sell for $9,000; and an MA will sell for $300; a PhD. will sell for $5, or two for $8.95. As an introductory offer, a Ph.D. in Philosophy will sell for $1.99 tractive to the University from the point of cost control. 'Students' will not be required to attend classes, buy text books, or eat at the school. Instead, they will just send in their certified cheques (or cash, in small, unmarked denominations) and a degree will be sent to them. This will eliminate the need for professors, maintenance staff, etc. In fact, the entire University can be run out of one office, with a secretary, a bookkeeper, and a figurehead 'President' who will sign the degrees and affix the University's seal.

The university buildings and land, it is felt, can then be sold to the highest bidder. The proceeds from this sale would then be split up and cheques sent to graduates from previous years who ha e not been able to find iobs.

There will be a party beginning at 6:55 a.m., Dec. 19 aboard Air Canada flight #345 on route to Sault Ste. Marie. Upon arriving at the Soo the party will move into town and down to the "Vic". Partying will continue non-stop at the Vic and on January 3, will head back to the airport to catch flight #340 at 8:55 a.m. The party ends upon arrival at Terminal 2, Toronto International Airport. We hope you enjoy partying and flying with us and do hope you can land safely (ie. no hangover) before classes begin. Let's drink to the Northerners cause they sure know how to throw a party. For more information you can talk to me tomorrow night. I'll be the one in the Turret under the table, no, not drunk you idiot, I'll just be checking on the bubble gum situation

P.S. Hey Gusty if you are on your way up to Fort Frances be sure to catch our party on the plane. I know planes don't go to that dot on the map they call Fort Frances, but you can at least party on the way to Thunder Bay. I'll meet you' in that same bar, or I mean restaurant, for a good hearty nutritional barley sandwich for breakfast, you know, the one we met in last year

Beatles play at Turret

Last week's Turret patrons were treated to a surprise concert by all four members of the famous Beatles.

George, Ringo, John, and Paul all happened to walk in separately to have a few beers, but ran into one another in the washroom. They decided it would be a nice idea to have a little jam session on stage, and despite vigorous protestations from the audience, were allowed to pick out a few tunes.

They started off slowly, playing a few of their more obscure tunes, like "Hey Jude" and "I Wanna Hold Your Hand", none of which the audience, composed of mostly Grade 12 specials, recognized. They then launched into a few of their popular tunes and more instantly the audience recognized them. They played for four solid hours to an audience of thirtyseven, then left. A reporter from Bored, who just happened to be in attendance, tried to ask them a few questions, like would they ever get together again, but was rudely pushed aside. The Turret doesn't need entertainment like this. The Turret should, instead, try to keep out the riff-raff and concentrate on good local talent. Who needs pushy these immigrants, anyway? They stunk. They should never be allowed inside the Turret again, if they ever come back. After all, this is a place for new, unknown talent, not has-been misfits like the Beatles!!

Movie: A Celluloid Triumph

Step aside, Francois Truffault. Take a back seat, Ingmar Bergman. Sefton Pennyworth is here.

The film is Just Another Day and Pennyworth makes his directorial debut with it in a fashion that hasn't been seen since Orson Welles brought the world Citizen Kane. Of course, Pennyworth has had a considerable amount of good luck, too: Laszlo Kovacks as director of photography, and a sensible, poignant script by Hermann Kwankq are godsends for any director, let alone a relative unknown like Pennyworth. And Pennyworth plays it for all it's worth.

Just Another Day may be the sleeper of the year. The studio has not put a tenth of the advertising budget into it that it deserves, so a recapitulation of the plot may be in order.

Charleton Heston sensitively portrays the captain of a jumbo jet, the crew and passengers of which are plagued by an infectious virus believed to have been transmitted to the humans when a crate of yucca moth pupae in the hold was accidently contaminated with radioactivity. The little worms metamorphose into adult moths and flit around the passengers and into the crews' cabin, spreading panic and certain death.

In a scene of personal bravery and heroism not seen since Sergeant York, Heston ditches the plane into a high-rise apartment building, in the belief that only the intensely hot flames of a jet-fuel fed inferno can destroy the moths. Dolly Parton, incidently, plays a travelling plumbing supplies salesperson with just the proper amount of self-deprecation and humility.

Robert Redford, as the janitor of the high-rise, was an inspired bit of casting. Rising from what could have been a mediocre role, Redford gives the performance of his life, but is burned to death far too early in my opinion.

Don Rickles, not usually associated with quality roles, absolutely shines as the head of San Francisco's Emergency Crisis Task Force. In one of the few scenes in the film that was played strictly for laughs, Rickles' performance can only be described as superb. His portrayal of a gay in blackface wondering how to put out the fire will go down in cinematic history.

Unfortunately though, Rickles had only a few scenes. The earthquake that finally toppled the high-rise into the ocean put an end to his part in the film.

Special praise should be given to Sophia Loren, Farah Fawcett-Majors, Cheryl Tiegs, and Requel Welch, who performed so superbly in the underwater sequence in which they tried to keep the sharks off the elevator. Paul Newman, as captain of the nuclear submarine pinned to the ocean floor by the collapsed high-rise, should also be singled out. Newman hasn't had a meatier role since The Hustler and I was personally saddened when the demented sailor (John Travolta) stabbed him in the back with his pen knife. The woman who was the link between Newman and the sailor (Gilda Radner) was suitably seductivelooking and erotic.

Dom Deluise portrayed the submarine's salad chef very well until his compartment flooded as he was tearing the endive.

Jacques Cousteau had a cameo appearance as the underwater wildlife expert called in to examine what happened to the squid once the submarine's nuclear reactor ruptured. The scene of him being carried off by the electric blue, pulsating, glowing squid is one that will be remembered by movie goers for decades to come.

Johnny Carson was to have played the role of the Mayor of San Francisco, but David Steinberg filled in instead. Steinberg rose to the occasion though, in fine show business fashion. The scene where he tried to fend off the giant, radioactive, pulsating. electric blue squid that was eating the city was a true heart-stopper.

The script, as you can see by this brief once-through, could have broken a lesser director that Sefton Pennyworth. Others would have played it 'schmaltzy' or capitalized on its subtle human tragedies. Pennyworth chose not to, to his credit and our eternal gratitude. Kovacks' photography was possible the best he has ever done. The freezeframe approach used in several scenes, particularly the duller in which dialogue scenes prevails, was most effective. His usage of sepia at the most unbelievable moments worked to make us more aware of his skills.

Yes, there is a long career ahead of young Mr. Pennyworth. Hollywood rumour has it that he is being inundated with scripts to direct. We hope he will be picky and only choose the ones in which his talents can come to the force. God Bless You, Sefton Pennyworth!

Audio: A Critical View in choosing a sound system

For the past few weeks we of a sound system. We hope that have discussed several very these points have been of some important points in the choosing help to those of you who are in

While the topics that have been covered are definitely very important, it has come to our attention that what is considered by most experts as the most important point above all else has not been covered. This is the question of ear wax. Most people do not realize it but ear wax is probably the most vital aspect involved in musical listening.

In 1937 Doctor Werner von Swill conducted a series of tests in which he determined that ear wax could be divided into three basic categories. These three categories he called; hard, soft, and schist. The first of these categories was defined as being the type of wax one would use a small pick or probe or small drill bit to remove. The second type was the wax which one would find quite simple to remove with a cotton swab or dish rag and was found to be quite un-obtrusive. The third type of schist as it is called was the type of wax which one finds to be constantly oozing out of ones ear somewhat like a gapping wound. Its name was derived from its close affinity to another material which also has a tendency to ooze out of the body and which most people try desperately not to step in.

Over the years extensive research has been done into the effect of these three types of ear wax on the human hearing and the results have been somewhat surprising. The first or hard type was found to produce a very noticable buzz in the ear at high volume levels. This was found to be quite irritating over extended listening periods and indeed has been proven to cause insanity in cases where corrective measures were not taken. It was also found that if left untreated this type of wax could build up to such proportions that when exposed to high sound pressure levels resonances would build up causing extreme damage to the cerebral membranes. This leads to very unpleasant listening.

The second or soft type of wax was found to cause quite a state of euphoria in the listener over long periods of time. This became quite q popular rage in the late 1940's as it was cheaper and easier than going down to the local speak-easy for a quick and very illegal belt. An interesting side effect of this soft wax was discovered strictly by accident. It was found that those people with soft wax infestations were unable to hear sounds over 500 cycles per second and thus there were a great many deaths at level railway crossings because the motorists or pedestrians for that matter were unable to hear the bells at the crossing or the whistle of the approaching train.

In the early years after the discovery of ear wax those who possessed the third or schist type of ear wax were considered to be freaks, or abnormal or at best sloppy. But as the years passed new and differing methods of reasearch started to show that only those few who were blessed with this type of wax were able to hear properly. It was proven dramatically when a test involving the three types was set up. All persons involved were asked to listen closely to a varity of sounds and draw on a sheet of paper what it was they were hearing. The results were staggering. Those who had hard wax were found to be writhing in pain and two of the subjects were taken to an institutuion for the mentally deficient where they are to this day. Those who had ears full of soft wax asking for unbrellas as they thought they heard thunder all the time and were sure that it was about to rain any minute. The test proved beyond any shadow of doubt that only those people with ears full of schist could hear anything even close to what they were supposed to hear.

Over the past few years the number of people with Schist ears has been steadily increasing and the audio industry has been fortunate to be an industry in which most of the people are full of schist. Medical science has made some remarkable strides in the past few years and now most of the unfortunates who are not blessed with schist and are stuck with hard of soft wax can be treated and the results are most gratifying. If you feel that you may have a problem in this area waste no time in seeing your doctor. As you head out to purchase your stereo system remember you can only make a proper choice if your ears are full of schist.

See you next year. C C Audio.

play out the Ace and King of trumps. Both opponents follow to both rounds. In desperation you take the Ace of Clubs and the Ace of Diamonds. On the latter card your right hand play is simple. Lead the Two of Diamonds and pitch a low heart from the board. Since Diamonds is all your left hand opponent has, he must lead another diamond. On it pitch a Heart from Dummy and a Club from your hand. On the next trick do the same.

Now you have lost three tricks. On the next diamond lead pitch the last heart from dummy and trump in your hand. Now cross ruff the two hearts in your hand and the two clubs in Dummy.

You made the hand! Now congratulate Dummy on a great bid.

taste treat ...

1 cup Fish worms (large and fat) salt, garlic salt, pepper and butter (or margarine)

Preheat oven to 400°F

Wash worms thoroughly and spice with salt, garlic salt and pepper. Grease cookie sheet with butter and place worms separately on the sheet making sure they don't touch each other. (they may wiggle around a bit but not for long. Bake until crisp. Serve with chip dip (no jokes please). You will have to season these to taste as everyone likes them a little differently seasoned. Add some of your own ideas, don't be shy.

Now, the question you might like answered at this point is: "Where do I get the worms"? Right? Well, there are places you can buy worms for human consumption but may I suggest you raise your own??? It's easy. The worm business is extremely lucrative and is pretty well a backyard operation. In the "Organic Gardener" magazine (sold on news stands) in the back, you will find distributors of worms and several offers to start your own company. Think of it, livestock right in your own backvard or better yet on the balcony. The neighbours will never complain, worms are extremely quiet and will play together for hours on end. They will get their nourishment from the soil so there must be no force feeding or injections given. They never leave the pen and aside from having to bring them in the house/apartment during the winter, there is not much appreciable odour . . . Well, now that you're all set up in business, why don't you whip up a few snacks .

Interview: Johnny Stoopid

This interview with punk rocker Johnny Stoopid, was conducted in the Plantation Room of the Kent Hotel after the smash (literal) performance at the Majestic Theatre in Waterloo, by our intrepid entertainment writer, Jocko Homo.

Homo: Uh, did you think the crowd responded favourably?

Inventor's descendent at WLU

Did you know that we have 'royalty' in our midst? A descendent of a world renowned inventor is a humhle student here at Laurier. We should be honoured.

If you read the "Unclassified Classifieds" in the Bored, you will know that the Commissioner of University Affairs, our own Dave Crapper, (son of hizzoner, the Lord Mayor of Meaford, Ontario) is a distant descendent of the world renowned Sir Thomas Crapper. And what did the world renowned Sir Thomas Crapper invent, you ask? Well, I will give you some clues. You use it at least once a day (I hope). You are always relieved after you use it. Do you know not? You guessed it !! The good old flush toi-toi!

This remarkable invention was baptized in the mid-1860's as a 'water-closet' (or W.C. to those who are 'with-it'). At a recent meeting the Greater London (England, that is) Council had a councilman inform the public that Sir Thomas deserved a memorial. (Dave was there as a member of the Craps delegation.) Juan Garcia sends a ball sailing through the air for the Winning Point!

PIC BY FOGGY LENS

by Jacques Strap

The Wilfrid Laurier Golden hawks in their initial season in the CFL have won the coveted Grey Cup. The game marked the first Grey Cup appearance for the Argonauts since 1974. Finally after 17 overtime periods import Juan Garcia attempted a 78 yard barefooted field goal which went wide and fell for a single when returner Anthony Davis dropped dead from exhaustion in the end zone.

After the game we talked with 79 year old coach Tuffy Knight who was elated with his first win ever at Empire Stadium in British Columbia. "We were here the mountains moved." As the celebration continued many questions were aimed at the new found offensive star Juan Garcia.

Through his interpreter, Lawyer Knobber Steinbeck, we learned that Juan had been smuggled out of Mexico on a squid boat and after a long and treacherous trip arrived in Vancouver the day of the game. Coach Knight was now trying to work on a temporary work visa so Garcia could kick for the Hawks in next week CFL vs NFL showdown. This game for the World Championship would put the Hawks against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers who earlier had slaughtered the Tokyo Bombers at Pearl Harbours beautiful new stadium (shaped like a ship). Coach Knight was not optimistic about getting Juan a visa because of Juan's lengthy criminal record back in Tijuana.

To look at Juan, you wouldn't think he was a football player (actually he wasn't until yesterday.) His 7'6" frame, 208 lbs is better suited to his job back home as a cherry picker. His main asset is his size 25 left foot, which resulted in two missed field goals (from the 98 and 78 yard lines). Final Statistics that were released favoured the Hawks

Hawk	6	Argos
First Downs	6	3
Yards Rushing	632	-235
Yards Passing	11	360
Penalties 56 for	380 68 for 8	50 yd.

A new Laurier defensive tactic called the groin buster reulted in 32 unnecessary roughing calls. This tactic involved taking 2 steps and kicking.

The wishbone resulted in all first downs and has been potent all season. The passing attack was not very explosive because before the game all the receivers went on strike.

So the season is nearing an end once again and the Hawks have enjoyed great success. Do you have any final words coach Knight? Coach Coach! Wake up Coach Knight. "Oh (yawn) I just would like to thank all the fans for their support." Since business was taken away from our school, 1100 kids have been our only support. I would like to add it was nice to beat Derwin Semeniac again and look forward to next year because WE WILL BE COMPETITIVE!

A recent release from Silly illy university (Ha! Poor cuse for a university) stated at the kind, sweet, lovable, n-loving sports editor, Gerald llan Huddelston, has given up s seat with Pete Humble and e rest of the varsity Hawk estlers to go the nationals in 9. The reasons for this great selfish move is that recently e Laurier student union sent erry, Barb, Lee, Laurie, Pat, ale, Rebecca, Hum, and Weasel Vancouver on student funds. erry and his staff of writers vered the Western bowl and n up an expense account of st under 13,000 dollars.

Although the sports editor and s crew were able to go to BC, adio Lawrence spokeswoman do was opposed Huddleston going if she couldn't go. Fido has known in all possible ways that WLUSU was wrong. (I read the washroom wall in the library.)

In retaliation, that sweet guy, Gerry, has announced that Fido, Bolts, and his lovely wife, Robin (recently crowned SNOWDRIFT QUEEN—refer to no. 2 in Smelly Shorts, Robin) will be sent on an all expenses paid trip to the nationals.

A Bored reporter talked to wrestling Coach Steve Scull and Cross Bones. He was delighted that the station would be providing live coverage of all matches. Steve's assistant, Full Nelson added, "Ya, twee extra peoples will help us to carry da bags, eh Coach? Did I do it right?

Bored Reporter: One final question, coach. When are you leaving?

Coach: Well I figure if we leave around 8:30 we should be there by approximately 9:00.

Bored reporter: Will it take you 12 1/2 hours to get there, coach? Coach: Hell no, it only takes 30 minutes!

Bored reporter: Where exactly are you going? Coach: We're going to Coach: We're going to GUELPH, idiot. It's not like we are going out to BC or Halifax. Bored reporter: Well thanks, coach, that's nice to know. Good Luck on your trip and watch out for the jet lag and the hookers. So that's all from here, folks! This is Bronco Studz saying to you: "If you don't play a sport, be one because if you don't, you're a wimp and we jocks don't like wimps. You got that, Touch Face?

Dear Mr. Knight: We hope you take this as this paper was intended.

Hawk tradition

by Jim Shorts Many of you die-hard Laurier fans realize that Laurier has created a long-standing tradition of athletic prowess. Most think that their inepiration on the football field comes from hard work, desire and great coaching. The truth is that their inspiration comes from booze, broads, and bennies. But we cannot give all the credit to the gang that hangs out at the 'Loo'! We have to give credit to the coaches for their brilliant recruiting. The coaches spend long hours young looking for prospects-not to mention enough money to buy out General Motors. In fact it is rumoured that Laurier's recruiting fund has so much money that when Taffy Nite talks E.F. Futton listens. But Laurier has always gotten players from unusual sources. The basketball Hawks got their seven foot forward this year from the TV studio of the Addam's Family. Meanwhile the football Hawks' big fullback was acquired from the firm that produces Sherman tanks. The Laurier kicker, Jerry Gulyes is a stand-in for the Six Million Dollar Man—he does the bionic kicking scenes.

If Howard can get one, so can Tuffy!

However, whoever recruited the cheerleaders is in dire need of an eye test. The Argos have the Sunshine Girls but I'm afraid to tag a name on these beauties. If they had done their recruiting from the girls' basketball and volleyball teams I'd be doing my Corporal Klinger impersonation and hiding in the cheerleaders' locker room.

The Hawks' winning tradition may soon be brought to an end. Rumour has it that Taffy Nite is currently negotiating with the Argos to buy the contract of Leo Cahill for his services as an assistant football ' coach. It seems coach Cahill may be able to bring all that Argo ingenuity to the Hawks to help them follow the Argo example of perfection and execution!

Hi! My name is Half-read Harry. My rather unusual but somewhat distinguished nickname was granted (rather than thrust upon) me because everything I read I only read half of and thus never really know what's going on in the world. But since this has never really prevented me on Parliament Hill from governing our country, I have not let it prevent me from writing sports for the Bored Weakly.

I thought that because of my rather unique perspective on life, I would fill you in on some of the greatest (not necessarily latest) sporting news around the globe. I wonder, have you been reading about the recent mass suicide of some 800 or so faithful followers of Jimmy Jones? Yeah, you know, the ace penalty killer for the 1979 Stanley Cup Champion Toronto Maple Leafs. I was absolutely flabbergasted when I first heard about it, so I decided to do a little research. I found out that this multitude of Leaf lovers committed suicide by drinking a mixture of Maple Leaf Gardens cola and cyanide. Apparently this was some sort of ritual they had practised often in the past. Every time Tiger Williams was in the penalty box and the other team scored, Jimmy Jones would scream, "It's time, my children, for us to unite and save ourselves from theenemy', the other team. On this cue they would begin a massive chant of "boos" and slug back their paper cup of Garden's cola. Now in all these previous cases, there was no apparent effect until the Leafs scored a goal and then they madly began to chant "Go'Leafs Go". However, on this particular occasion, it was not a practice, and when Jimmy Jones echoed his immortal words, the crowd began a frenzied chorus of "boos", then proceeded to squirt the potent solution down the throats of their children and while a few insanely darted to the corridor (possibly due to the beckoning of nature) the 800 diehard (easy) Leaf fans and the four members of the Jimmy Jones fan club threw back the liquid concoction and died before the 18 minute mark of the third period.

Speaking of Tiger Williams, did you hear that he was have to been reported contemplating retiring from hockey? Yes, it is true, he has decided that he wants to devote more time to boxing and challenge Muhammed Ali for the Heavyweight Championship, the only stipulation being that they fight on skates.

Did you know that when Pete third baseman of Cincinnati Reds) was recently asked if he felt he was worthy of receiving $600,000 a year for hitting, throwing, and catching a little cloth-bound piece of cork, he was reported to have said, "No, I deserve a million."

I wonder if you are aware of the fact that Gerry Huddleston, our fearless leader, was offered the position of sports editor of the Toronto Star but declined, citing as excuses: 1. he didn't want to work for an inferior paper, 2. he didn't want to be associated with a city of losers, and 3. he's afraid that when covering Argo games he wouldn't be able to take his eyes off the Sunshine girls. However, I think the real reason that Gerry didn't want to leave the Cord is because he knows that never would he be able to replace such a talented, industrious, simply outstanding group of sports writers. Right, Gerry.
